WE NOMINATE

Donald Ross Hamilton, described by one associate as an "inspired and inspiring educator", who this week, after 7 years of outstanding service as Dean of Princeton University's ever-growing Graduate School, relinquished his heavy administrative responsibilities to return to full-time teaching and research in the Department of Physics. The youngest man ever to serve as "Graduate Dean," a post created early in this century during Woodrow Wilson's presidency of Princeton, the 50-year old Hamilton has been concerned with what President Robert F. Goheen terms "the challenging task of a controlled year-by-year expansion of the Graduate School as this University's most substantial possible contribution to the nation's urgent need for university and college teachers."

Named in the spring of 1958 as successor to Hugh Stott Taylor, now President of the Woodrow Wilson National Fellowship Foundation, this native of Vermont brought to his new position the imagination and insights invariably associated with pure research in the natural sciences. The expansion initiated and shaped by Taylor and his associates was skillfully continued. A graduate enrollment of 747 in the fall of 1958 had climbed to 956 by 1961 and has since moved steadily upward in the humanities and social sciences as well as in engineering and science until it stands this year overall at 1,153 degree candidates, an increase of 400% since the end of World War II.

While newly announced plans for the construction of apartment housing for married graduate students and the completion at the Graduate College in 1963 of two new dormitory courts, providing space for 270 unmarried students, symbolize the "dynamics of change", what is not so readily apparent have been Hamilton's major contributions to the "policy councils of the University" and his leadership of the Association of Princeton Graduate Alumni. The latter, numbering some 7,000 persons, has become an integral part of the Princeton National Alumni Association and has developed to the point that it is now represented on the University's Board of Trustees.

A member of the Department of Physics since 1946, and appointed to the rank of full professor a decade ago, Hamilton has taught on both the undergraduate and graduate levels and has carried forward a wide variety of research undertakings. In the years immediately preceding his designation as Dean, he held the Cyrus Fogg Brackett Professor of Physics, a position reserved for "a creative scientist of high distinction" who is "readily accessible to graduate students."

After graduating from Princeton with the Class of 1935 with Highest Honors in Physics, he took his doctoral degree at Columbia in 1939 and subsequently joined the Society of Fellows at Harvard University. At first on leave from Harvard, and throughout World War II until called to Princeton, he was associated with the high-priority projects at the MIT Radiation Laboratory and with the Sperry Gyroscope Company. In recent years his research activities in nuclear physics have been largely centered on atomic-beam investigations of the spins and moments of radioactive nuclei, work which has attracted wide attention in scientific publications.

For endowing any venture he undertakes with a kind of uplifting leadership that is all too rare in this restive world; for possessing in abundance those qualities of perception and understanding sought in teacher-scholars; for his selfless dedication to the tasks he shoulders; he is our nominee as

LEGEND IN THE MAKING

Bradleyball Era Nears End. The most fascinating quality about Bill Bradley's basketball career at Princeton has been the fact that the thousands who have watched him play in Dillon Gymnasium have known that they will never see anything like it again. Athletic ability — and athletic history — have been unfolded in front of their eyes, and they have watched with awesome pleasure much as if they were somehow privileged to witness the actual execution of a great masterpiece.

It is the degree of sheer artistry that Bradley exudes in making his plays that has made his career at Princeton so rewarding to the sports-loving spectator. What makes his picturesque flow of motion so memorable is the fact that it is achieved in a sport which has always accepted awkwardness personified, as long as its efforts are translated into points on the scoreboard. In the sharpest sort of contrast to the flagrant body-contact perpetrated by the smaller players, or the gangling gyrations of the human skyscrapers, Bradley's gracefulness in guarding, driving, faking, shooting, is so eye-filling that the shouts which punctuate his field goals are as much a tribute to the manner in which he has executed the play as the fact that Princeton is two points closer to victory.

Next Wednesday night, shortly before 9:30, Princeton and Pennsylvania will leave the floor in the final Ivy League game of the season here, and the Bill Bradley era in Dillon Gymnasium will come to a close. For the 3,000 spectators fortunate enough to obtain tickets to an event that upwards of 9,000 would like to see, it will be a memorable occasion.

It will also — with no small amount of attendant wistfulness fomented by the wish that good things might continue to definitely — mark the end of an era. In years to come, Princeton will again be in the thick of many an Ivy League race, and when its new cage-auditorium is finished two or three years from now, some 7,000 fans may jam their way into the game which will decide the title. But the law of averages dictates that not within the foreseeable future will Princeton again have everybody's choice as the nation's best college basketball player, and that even if another super-star does one day wear Orange and Black, it is wholly unlikely that he will combine the many outstanding characteristics that make William Warren Bradley the man he is.

THE CLASSIC PICTURE: Surrounded by four Cornell players, Bill Bradley scores two more for the Tigers. First published in TOWN TOPICS a year ago, the picture symbolizes the frustration of opposing teams seeking to prevent the All-American and Olympic star from rolling up points. For an evaluation of the impact his career, now drawing to a close, has had on Princeton, see this page.

Basketball Only a Phase. What makes Bill Bradley so unusual is that his achievement in becoming the best among thousands of amateur basketball players is merely a passing phase in his life — a chapter in which he has virtually written the end already by his decision to become a Rhodes Scholar rather than a professional athlete. He would rather study than sleep, prefers teaching Sunday school to weekend relaxation, has his mind set on a career which seems sure to develop into some aspect of public service — because he will be doing something for others.

Inevitably, the press notices which have preceded him, combine with his play on the basketball court to win opposing fans so completely that the loudest, longest ovations he has received have come elsewhere than at Princeton. Fittingly, it was in the nation's largest basketball arena—Madison Square Garden — that last Christmas he drew the longest, noisiest salutation ever accorded a college or professional player. When he left the floor after leading his team to the brink of victory over top-ranked Michigan, the cheering, the whistling, the shouting lasted a full three minutes.

Three at the Top. In the near full century of intercollegiate athletics at Princeton, there are only three men of the hundreds upon hundreds who have worn Orange and Black whose achievements seem destined to live as long as intercollegiate athletics are a part of the American scene. One is Hobey Baker, the second is Dick Kazmaier, the third is Bill Bradley. At the height of their respective careers, each was the best player in his sport in the nation.

Baker's achievements in hockey, now so distant that they fall on the other side of the modern era, are nonetheless sufficiently noteworthy that they warrant his place among the best of Princeton athletes. In the uncertain hockey conditions of the pre-World War I era, the scoring records he

BILL BRADLEY: "A man playing among boys" is the comment a leading professional coach made of the Princeton captain on the basketball court. Off the court, Bradley is quite a man among men, too.

Two for 42

It is more than mere coincidence that Bill Bradley wears 42, the uniform number which Dick Kazmaier first made famous at Princeton and which has never been issued to another Princeton football player here.

In his superbly-written article on Bradley, in the New Yorker, John McPhee tells how the coming basketball star used to choose the name "Dick Kazmaier of Princeton" in neighborhood pickup games of football. It was logical that he should ask for 42 when he came here and, hopefully, equally logical that it will be retired upon his graduation, as 42 has been on the gridiron.

Incidentally, next Wednesday's game with Pennsylvania will be marked by another Bradley "first." A commemorative 20-page program, with McPhee's 17,000-word New Yorker article as its highlight, is being prepared for the occasion.

ly. Those are the skills, and the personal traits—not merely the innate ability to rewrite the record book — that bring 9,000 fans to their feet in the Palestra or 12,000 in the basketball-mad communities of Lexington, Ky and Charlotte, N. C.

It was a combination of his reputation as a schoolboy All-American that preceded him to Princeton and his first season in Dillon Gymnasium as a freshman that originally made the sports fan stare at him. When the freshmen played at 6:30 before a varsity game that winter, some 1,500 spectators —five times the normal number for a preliminary contest— turned out to watch Bradley. Among other things, they saw him set a national foul-shooting record as he made 56 consecutive free throws before one rolled off the rim, outward-bound.

Barely able to seat 3,000 — even with additional stands squeezed in far off center — Dillon Gym and its ticket office have found the Bradley era unmatched by anything in past athletic history here. Gone are the days of unlimited public sale of season ticket books and a permanent "sold out" sign graces the lone window at the entrance.

Detailed ticket priorities were established before Bradley's senior year began, but they broke down completely ten days ago when the decisive game with league-leading Cornell loomed. Charges of mismanagement, favoritism and scalping followed; on the brighter side, arrangements were completed for a precedent-making closed-circuit television of the Cornell and possibly the Penn game.

It is typical of college basketball that despite Bradley's presence on the Princeton team, it is still in the thick of a hot battle to defend its Ivy League title successfully. Despite his fantastic ability (he was good enough to captain the team which won the Olympic championship at Tokyo last October), and skillful coaching from the effervescent Bill van Breda Kolff, the balance that a topflight team needs has not often been achieved by Princeton this season. It may be realized in the climactic games in the week ahead — despite the imbalance which is inevitably created by the presence of a super-star, teams on which Bradley plays have had the ability to play their best when the stakes are highest.

Whether or not Princeton wins the Ivy League championship this season, and qualifies again for the NCAA Tournament, is actually incidental. It has won six times in the last 14 years, and it will win again in winters yet to come.

More to the point is the fact that within the next week, Bill Bradley will walk off the court in Dillon Gymnasium for the last time, his basketball career at Princeton at an end. Because of the utter perfection with which he has played, and because of the immense appeal he has created as an individual, a little bit of those watching for the last time will go with him.

TO DISCUSS MERGER

Boards to Present Findings.

Borough and Township School Boards will join Tuesday night to present for the first time to the public the findings of their joint study of possible school merger.

The presentation will be made at 8 in the Princeton High School auditorium in a meeting arranged by all six Princeton Parent Teachers Associations, Borough and Township.

Members of Borough and Township Boards of Education will be present, and representatives from each will speak. They will discuss such topics as the mechanics of unification, the advantages and disadvantages to each district and the educational implications of a merged school system.

Participating for the Borough Board will be Graham Rohrer, president; John A. Buekland and Robert A. Lively. Township Board representatives will be George M. Grace, president; Mrs. Jess Epstein, vice-president, and Richard Pearson who was president of the school board during the merger study period.

CAR IS DEMOLISHED

By Truck and Flames. Gary Deindorfer, 21, of Trenton, is a lucky young man. Unbelievably lucky in the opinion of many who witnessed the spectacular accident in which he was involved Tuesday morning at 8:20 at the intersection of Hodge Road and Bayard Lane.

Mr. Deindorfer's 1964 compact car, once bright red, was reduced to a scorched mass of scrap metal when its rear end was flattened by a tire of a huge tractor-trailer truck and it burst into flames moments after snapping a traffic light pole.

Unable to escape through the car doors, which were jammed shut, Mr. Deindorfer escaped by crawling through the shattered front windshield. Later he said, "I'm glad that windshield was knocked out; I couldn't have gotten out otherwise." He emerged without a scratch.

As reconstructed by the police, Mr. Deindorfer was in the process of turning right from Hodge onto Bayard Lane when the truck, heading toward Princeton on Bayard, came over the crest of the hill and caught the Diedorfer car on the left front fender.

As one of the truck's tires rode up the rear of the compact, it pushed it against a traffic light pole, snapping it, and then dragged it about 100 feet down the roadway toward Miss Fine's School. The car finally came to rest against the opposite curb.

Ralph Wagner, 54, of Somerville, driver of the truck which was hauling a load of clay type baskets used on earth moving machines, was also uninjured. The rear of his truck was damaged when it was ignited from gasoline from the Deindorfer car.

Minutes after the crash, a general alarm was sounded and units from all fire companies sped to the scene to extinguish the blazing car. Police had to detour traffic from busy 206

"HOW HE DID IT I'LL NEVER KNOW," said one police officer of Gary Deindorfer who escaped from this flattened, charred hulk of what was once a bright red compact car. Mr. Deindorfer managed his escape by crawling through an opening where the front windshield used to be. The extent of his injuries? Not a scratch! Story in Topics of the Town. (Staff Photo)

for about an hour. The accident was witnessed by scores of children from Miss Mason's School located across the street.

Patrolman John J. Bellow Jr., who conducted investigation of the accident, said that he was unable to determine conclusively who was at fault. Both drivers, he said, claimed to have had a green light. He issued summons to each for careless driving.

Another Was Lucky, Too. Almost as fortunate as Mr. Deindorfer was Anthony Sundstom, 17, of Stockton. Sundstom's car went out of control on Rosedale Road shortly after noon on Monday when the roadway was still wet and slippery from a light snowfall the night before.

Mr. Sundstrom was taken to Princeton Hospital where he was treated for a bump on the head and x-rayed. He was ticketed for careless driving.

Township Police said that Mr. Sundstrom, after passing two cars, lost control when he hit snow in the center of the roadway in attempting to cut back. His car left the roadway, skidded 50 feet, knocked down a mailbox, continued on and knocked down 40 feet of hedge and 40 feet of stockade fence bordering General Johnson's property.

His car's right wheel then struck a large tree, causing it to bounce across Rosedale Road where he collision, both vehicles continued across the intersection where the van jumped the curb and bent a mail box stand.

BOARD ELECTS GRACE

As President. George M. Grace was elected president of he Township Board of Educaion at the Board's re-organiza ion meeting Thursday. Mrs. Jess Epstein will be vice-president. Mr. Grace succeeds Richard Pearson, who served as oresident for three of his six years on the Board and did not seek re-election this year.

Kehoe-Dovas, the contractors with whom the Board has engaged in skirmish for some time, was sued for $100,000. The suit hinges on work done —or, according to the Board, not done—on Littlebrook and Riverside Schools.

The Board says that it owes Kehoe-Downs about $18,000, which it doesn't intend to pay until the contracting firm has met what the Board regards as its obligations to Littlebrook and Riverside Board members point to unfinished work; work finished but not done properly; work which the Board had to hire another contractor to finish and possible extra administrative costs incurred because the projects were not done as they should have been.

The civil action was served on February 11 and the board has until March 3 to answer. In its answer, the Board can either file a complete denial, which would mean a trial some months from now, or suggest that the matter be submitted to arbitration. It would be up to the court to decide whether or not arbitration should be allowed.

In his monthly report, superintendent John J. McKenna gave two examples of the way the school system takes care of the individual within the mass. One sixth-grade boy at Community Park, advanced in mathematics and science, has been taking junior high courses in these subjects at Valley Road.

"He is doing very well and is profiting by the arrangement," Dr. McKenna observed.

The Township has also worked out a program for a boy with severe hearing difficulties. He is assigned to a regular class and his work is supplemented by sessions with a tutor and the Township's speech-hearing therapist.

Dr. McKenna said that, as a result of conferences with the Mercer County Supervisor of Child Study, the boy will be examined again and experts will be called in to advise school authorities on the best ways of handling the child.

$124 IS STOLEN

From Choir College Kitchen. A thief forced open a portable strong box located in a pantry-office off the kitchen of the Westminster Choir College Saturday night or early Sunday morning and escaped with $124.87. Two checks were also taken.

According to Borough police, Winn Baggett, chef at the college, called Sunday morning to report the loss. He told them that a screen over a pantry window had been cut and then a small pane in the window above the latch broken to gain entry. Police added that the same pantry was entered in the same manner a year ago.

Two minor thefts were reported by Richard Embley 13, 23 Humbert Street, and Mrs. Fred S. Cook, 44 Vandeventer Avenue. Young Embley said that his coat, valued at $49, was taken Saturday morning from a locker room at the high school.

Between February 16 and 19, according to Mrs. Cook, someone took $40 which she had placed in her dresser drawer. Police said they could find no signs of any forced entry in the rooming house where Mrs. Cook lives.

ELEVEN ARE CAUGHT

In Red Light Crackdown. During the past two weeks, Borough foot patrolmen, stationed at Nassau Street intersections between Bayard Lane and Washington Road, have nabbed 11 drivers running a red light. This was offered by Chief Peter J. McCrohan at his press conference Tuesday morning as evidence that his crackdown on red light violaters has been a fruitful one.

The 11 were caught as a result of a one-hour surveillance each day from Monday through Friday. Not included are the ones who got away, said the police, and at least ten more violators who were stopped by patrol cars.

Said Chief McCrohan: "Too many drivers are violating lights, especially at Harrison and Nassau, and Nassau and Washington Road, which is the worst of all.

"It gets to be a habit with people," McCrohan continued, "and it gets progressively worse. They beat a light by a half-second one day and then they'll try to stretch it even longer the next."

Because of the many complaints he has received, Chief McCrohan said he plans to con-

News Of The THEATRES

"RIVALS" OPENS

Spring Season Launched. McCarter Theater has chosen a famous 18th-century comedy of manners as the curtain-raiser for its spring season of plays, to be devoted this year entirely to comedy except for a brief diversion in the form of a production of "Macbeth."

However, "Macbeth" is still off on the moor somewhere and at the moment, we are concerned with "The Rivals" by Sheridan, which opened the season and McCarter's 36th year on Saturday night with the splendid flourish of a lace-edged handerchief.

It is not by accident that we refer first of all to lace, because the most immediately obvious thing about this production of Sheridan's classic, is its visual charm.

Gone is McCarter's "festival stage." Instead, we have painted banners, some only of scrim, to locate us indoors or out. From left and right, above, we are greeted by a lady marionette and a gentleman marionette and, who knows, perhaps the figures moving about the stage with their mannered postures, are themselves only worked by strings.

Richard Anderson has fashioned the most exquisite wardrobe McCarter has ever allowed in its budget, and the first act consists almost entirely of deliciously blonde ladies sweeping about the stage in fabulously beautiful gowns, all blonde and pastel, and ravishingly handsome captains in British redcoat uniforms, striding manfully about to Mr. Sheridan's prose.

Well, it's delightful to look at. On the whole, Mario Siletti has directed for us an entertaining evening, and where "The Rivals" runs into trouble, the fault is less Siletti than Sheridan.

The play is just too long. Mr. Siletti has omitted both Prologue and Epilogue, but he should have cut even more. He is a director who understands pace, and although "The Rivals" moves right along, it takes more than three hours to play this comedy to its final courtly speech. A comedy of wit and manners it may well be, but there is not the continuous crackle of brilliant wit to electrify an audience into forgetting those three hours

"The Rivals" has almost as much broad humor as pointed wit. It tells of dashing young Captain Absolute and his doughty, gouty father who can't understand where his son inherited such a willful disposition. Captain Absolute, under the guise of an Ensign Beverly, is courting young Lydia Languish, whose aunt, Mrs. Malaprop, guards her like an old dragon. But Sir Anthony Absolute, the Father, has his own ideas about whom he wants his son to marry. And so on.

The cast performs well. Because Mr. Siletti has directed them to act in a mannered manner, it is impossible to tell whether the actors in this new company will prove out as the season progresses. Actors are required to strike a pose, pound forehead with fist and cry "Zounds!" which doesn't give any of them much chance to show whether they can act.

Barbara Caruso is a perfectly charming Lydia Languish, and her dialogue in the first act with an equally charming Julia, played by Ronnie Claire Edwards, is a feminine delight.

Rudy Holbrook is Mrs. Malaprop, a character almost as familiar on the English-speaking stage as Lady Macbeth. Theatergoers who saw Mrs. Holbrook as the mad Queen Margaret in "Richard III" or as Nurse in "Romeo" will recall that she is an actress who uses broad strokes to delineate a character, and her Mrs. Malaprop follows this pattern.

Mr. Siletti has asked all his actors to enunciate clearly (Sheridan is all words, and if they are lost, so is the play) and let us say only of Mrs. Holbrook that not a single one of her famous malapropisms is lost, even in the back row.

Emery Battis is in form as the choleric Sir Anthony, and Clarence Felder is a surprisingly restrained Sir. Lucius O'Trigger, Irish suitor of Mrs. Malaprop. He resists the temptation of an Irish brogue and allows himself only a subtle lilt now and again.

Throughout this production of "The Rivals," Mr. Siletti's attention has been to Sheridan and his play. He lets the author's words—and how many of them there are!—speak for themselves, without the intrusion of too much business.

An occasional exchange of teacups, a bit of posing before a mirror, a quick piece of fluff with a fan—this is about all he allows between Sheridan and his audience. So, if you like the crisp 18th century turn of phrase, trippingly spoken, and a play which is a delight to the eye, try "The Rivals."

—Katharine Bretnall

Scrapbooks Presented

Ten scrapbooks covering every phase of McCarter's theatrical life from 1934 to 1942 have been presented to the Princeton University Theatre Collection by Mrs. Peg Wangler.

It was during those years that Mrs. Wangler booked stars and shows into McCarter, and the scrapbooks contain not only programs and clippings of reviews, but personal letters of appreciation to her from such theatrical personalities as Katherine Cornell, Julie Haydon and Eddie Dowling.

NUMBER TWO READY

For Spring "Comedy." A double bill consisting of Moliere's "School for Wives" and Chekhov's "The Marriage Proposal" will open this Saturday at 8:30 as McCarter's second offering in its spring comedy series.

For the Moliere comedy Stephen Porter is directing a cast consisting of Nicholas Kepros as "Arnolphe," the middle-aged suitor-guardian of the innocent young "Agnes," played by Barbara Caruso. James Tripp will portray the dashing "Horace." The comic servant pair of "Alain" and "Georgette" will be played by Clarence Felder and Tally Brown.

In addition, the cast includes Mario Siletti and Emery Barris as "Chrysalde" and "Oronte."

Curtain-raiser will be Chekhov's "The Marriage Proposal," once described by its author as a "jest in one act." The cast of three will consist of MacIntyre Dixon and Saundra MacDonald as the unmanageable neighbors, "Ivan" and "Natalyia" and Robert Summers as "Stephan." Arthur W. Litngow is the director.

"IVAN" IS NEXT

In Film Series. "Ivan the Terrible," (Part I), the last collaboration of Sergei Eisenstein, Serge Prokofiev and Eduard Tisse, will be shown at McCarter Tuesday at 8 as part of the theater's series of French and Russian film classics.

Filmed by the photographer Tisse with an original score by Prokofiev, "Ivan" was started by Eisenstein in 1944

NEW SHOP TO OPEN

Donna, no Nassau. Juniors and misses, those petite juniors who wear dresses no bigger than a kerchief, and preteens will all find themselves welcome at the new Donna Shop, 96 Nassau, where the Cummins Shop used to be. Opening day is Friday.

Here, in the pleasant country atmosphere of old pine and calico, Donna has—well, Madras, to start. You've just got to have Madras, after all. Bunny dresses, shifts with sleeves long or noo-existent, tailored suits, headbands—the whole repertoire.

Junior petites who wear such improbable sizes as 3, will explain over the acetate in fine black-grey stripes with a peeking red hankie in the pocket and red topstitching.

A kind of navy grey chambray makes the low-slung skirt of a junior petite ensemble. A red and cream striped top joins the skirt with a red polka dot belt, and a red polka dot stand-up collar encircles the top.

And wait'll you see the bright, bright red "linen" princesse whose two narrow black bands mark the "A" line all the way down. A giant black bow stands at the apex of the "A."

Makes Any Seat A Comfortable Seat

The giddiest fashion we've seen since the bustle is the bustle.

You know what we mean, of course, if you have watched television and thumbed the fashion magazines. It's the padded girdle, rounded out in the back with foam rubber pads to make you look shapely in a tight bathing suit or a pair of skin-snug stretch pants.

At Edith's, they should affect from the rear. Now the ones who slightly at the whole idea, but fashion after all, is fashion. Here it is, on Chambers Street itself, in a flesh colored brief to wear under a bathing suit, "crup" sizes B and C.

For dry land, you buy a black lace panty girdle stretched over beige and, once again, padded in back to give you more than you already have.

Seems ridiculous, somehow, when you think of the time, sweat, and eash women have spent for decades tryiog to reduce the overall never could quite reduce enough are back in the saddle again and the ones who managed to pare it all away, have to buy "C" cups.

We want to know just one thing: so you go swimming, and you climb out of the pool and you sit down. When you sit, what happens to all the water soaked up in that foam rubber?

Pre-teens will wear the sassy print that's like a bandanna gone wild. A three-inch ruffle goes around "way above the knee and matches the triangular kerchief.

Those giant industrial zippers you've been seeing in the ads appear in Princeton on Doan's racks. Here's one closing a dark blue denim shirt and eoding up at a pan collar. There's a bandanna facing and short sleeves.

Now for the jjuniors. The dacron and rayon shirt dress has a stand-away collar that removes some of the tailored look, but the straight skirt and long sleeves keep it in the tailored bracket. The fabric? Stripes. The feel? Like silk.

For warm weather, wear the two-piece sheer (lined) grey with permanently pleated skirt and sniy overblouse baodied with grey lace. Jonathan Logan contributes one of the best looking junior dresses. It's deep chartreuse, shift style, with an eight-inch panel of embroidery raflt down the front. Sleeves are short, neckline boasts a little tie.

If this is your year for a spring suit, consider Donna's chalk white double knit wool with its jersey overblouse and brass buttons. Or the brilliant turquoise wool knit, sleeves of its ivory blouse showing coyly below the sleeves of the jacket.

The full-length black and white houndstooth coat has a skirt to match and a white overblouse.

Skirts at Donna's follow this year's pleasing fashion—no waistband. Slim! "Hogwash" is natural canvas, just one long, clean line. Comes in dark navy, too. A whole line of no-belt skirts comes in grey-sage, olive, navy or claret, and the same colors are also available in styles with traditional skirt belts.

Ranged in a big pine breakfront are Donna's sweaters: the pastel Garlands, the soufflé cardigans, the classics for tennis. Next are leather bags for spring, like the bone clutch purse and the unusual double bag, put together like real saddle bags, but smaller, smaller.

Shirts and blouses are—button-down, pan collar, severely tailored, wildly patchwork, solid in color, prim in print. Buy one of each.

ART AND MORE OF IT

At Queenstown, Queenstowo Craft has decided to forego the country life and move to the city, and you will now find the pleasant craft shop, net in its old location which we woo't even mention to avoid confusiop, but on Main Street, Pennington, between the Presbyterian Church and Howe's Nursery.

Here, in a sunny old house, Queenstown will offer, starting in April, lessons in watercolor, oil and sketching, by such artists as Elizabeth Ruggles of Yardley and Donald Werden, with the possibility of summer art classes in the spacious yard behiod the house.

Children's classes will be offered, too, and if you want to find out more and to register, call 737-1876 and sign up.

Meantime, while the mud thaws and the upstairs gallery is being made ready, Queenstown continues its tradition of picture framing, done with taste and a modest price.

The shop also has, of course, the craftsmanship of artists who live around the Pennington - Princeton - Hopewell - Lawrenceville area, because the idea of fostering regional talent has always been uppermost with Queenstown.

On a recent visit, for example, we lotoed once again the warm earthen ceramic pieces of Sally Kunstadter. Here's a pinch-mouth pitcher ($7) and a charming little shallow bowl ($3.50). An incredibly soft grey-blue salad bowl, is only $12.

Alan Mayhew's duck, carved smoothly in cherry, is $20. You'll examine, as well, a low relief plaque with its gentle mode emerging from the rough surface of the raw stone.

On the wall, there's "The Red Bridge at Lambertville" from the brush of William Hankinson, the muralist who lives in Pennington. It's full of the green and sun of summer, the red bridge adding just enough non-green for contrast. Mr. Hankinson also has, here at Queenstown, a bouquet of popples, cornflowers and daisies arranged carelessly in a basket, with a blue-eyed-child's face blooming, surprisingly, in the bouquet.

To time, Queenstown expects to increase its collection of crafts, pottery, sculpture and wood-carving from artists who live nearby—and not so nearby, too. The silver jewelry that has been a favorite of Queenstown customers will be back soon after the dust of moving has settled.

The work of the Bennington Potters is represented here by a tall sugar-creamer-jam pot set with straight up and down lines repeated in the peg knob that lifts off the lids, and the usual small bowls and ashtrays.

And speaking of craftsmen: Queenstown carries the Cole Confections, made in Pennington. Remember the butter and finished more than two years later.

Part I deals with the early rise to power of Czar Ivan IV. Eisenstein said that in his film, he is "Concealing anything, smoothing over nothing in the history of the actions of Ivan the Terrible, detracting nothing from the formidably impressive romanticism of that splendid image of the past."

Part II, which contains the famous color section, will be shown later this spring on a date to be announced.

TO GIVE EURIPIDES

In Greek. A performance, in Greek, of Euripides' "Hippolytus" will be given Sunday at 3 in McCarter by undergraduates from Princeton and Bryn Mawr. It will be the first presentation of a classical Greek play in Princeton in half a century.

Miss Cynthia Gardiner, Bryn Mawr '63, now a resident of Princeton, has been directing a cast of six principals and a chorus of 15.

"Hippolytus" tells the familiar story of the son of Theseus whose stepmother, Phaedra, falls in love with him. In the Princeton-Bryn Mawr production, Paul Woodruff will play Hippolytus and Diane Willis will be Phaedra. Ann Lovgren will be Artemis, Carol Cain will be Aphrodite, William Janeway, Theseus and John Vigerita, a servant. Miss Cain, who knows no Greek, has learned her part by rote.

A complete play-by-scene synopsis in English will be provided for the audience, and there will also be an English narration by Andrew Zimmerman.

Costumes have been furnished by Bryn Mawr, and 10 Greek columns, each 10 feet high, have been produced from a Princeton attic. Princeton undergraduates have been using an old hearse to transport their cast from Bryn Mawr to Princeton for rehearsals.

JOSH WHITE COMING

Juniors are Hosts. Folksinger Josh White has been invited to Prnceton for Junior Prom Weekend, but the old folks can listen in, too. Tickets are on sale for the public at the McCarter Theatre box-office.

Mr. White will appear on Saturday afternoon, March 6 at 2 in McCarter.

A major figure in the world of folk music for more than 20 years, Mr. White is noted for his blues guitar and his repertoire of work and protest songs. He was one of the first folksingers to follow an active concert career.

cerns a platoon of stranded Japanese and a U.S. Marine contingent which has crash-landed in the nearby jungle.

The Japanese and American troops are left without radio contact with their commands and feel out each other's strength in a series of pitched battles. A cease-fire is called, and the enemies settle down to an uneasy co-existence which explodes into battle again.

The theme, discovering the humanity of one's enemies, is hardly new, but the treatment in this film has some merit. The cast of Japanese actors and sub-titles are given for their lines) put on excellent performances. Frank Sinatra, Clint Walker and Tommy Sands carry the lead roles as Marines.

The dramatic effect of the film is found in the contrast between the truce period and the senseless violence at the close. Many of the scenes are shocking . . . and not for kids.

NEW STRAND

One Potato, Two Potato, through Saturday) deals with the theme of racial intermarriage. At the Cannes Film Festival, it won the best actress award for the star, Barbara Barrie. The story concerns the custody of a white child whose mother has chosen a Negro for her second husband.

Chumlum and The Flower Thief (Sunday only) Ilan Ricci has abandoned the Hollywood clear plot, clear characters, clear photography school in these two experimental films.

"Flower Thief" is a 20th Century parable concerning a gentle misfit who searches in the San Francisco streets for love, acceptance, beauty and meaning for his life. "Chumlum," is a moody feast for the eyes — stressing cinematic effects rather than social comment. Acclaimed for its beaucrunch? The rich, black chocolates? The pastel creams?"

Artists' supplies in abundance are new for Queenstown, and a necessary adjunct to the classes that will start this spring. Grumbacher is the source.

By the way, the coffee urn is always on at Queenstown. Have a cup of steaming coffee while you browse.

OFF WITH THE OLD
And On With Spring. Lounging and sleeping this spring will be more fun than ever. Ask Edith, on Chambers Street.

We start with the Night Shaper, a threepiecer consisting of a Bikini and a sheer thigh-length popover. Yellow, blue.

Juniors will wear a white tricot sleep coat made like a sailor suit, and brief as a shore leave. The sailor collar is banded narrowly in navy and red, and the same narrow stripe slants off the brief and goes around the half slip.

That blue tricot jumpsuit is all of a piece. It has white tiers of lace from ankle up to midcalf, just like pantsletter, with a jacket that's nothing but tiers of white lace.

Another pair of pajamas—or do you call them "long culottes?"—is black and white arcel jersey in paisley design, and still another is spotted like a leopard in yellow and bronze.

Street length culottes could almost go to market. Here's one of red calico. Here's another in mustard gold with little white diamonds and a criss-cross sash. And that white arnel sharkskin shift with its kerchief of lemon and gold like a cloud, is more dress than robe.

Edith's favorite robe this spring is the long, sinous jersey in a print straight out of Chagall. Brilliant pink, turquoise, lemon have been jig-sawed together like a dazzling stained glass window. It's a peignoir with a very low U back, no sleeves, and a simple gathered neckline. Devastating, but don't sit down on chintz.

White pique, cool as ice-cream, has a 10-inch ruffle around the bottom. This is a floor length robe, with tiny cap sleeves, a U-neck with eyelet scallops for trim, and a narrow black velvet sash to match the tiny black velvet bows down the front.

Another white pique has been treated to red poppies and tiny blue forget-me-nots. The front is sleek, the back fully gathered from the waistline. Red rickrack trims neck and sleeves.

Spring brides will buy the $17 set in finest tricot trimmed with pale yellow flowers at the girlish pleated collar. Or the white batiste with its overlapping blue petals around the U neck and down the front.

Yellow polished cotton—all cotton—looks like a daffodil. It comes in a twopiece set trimmed lavishly with white eyelet and finished off with a yellow satin bow. (Blue or pink, also).

Women who love a long gown love this one; it's print Georgette with a delicate spray of blue flowers, a sash and lace, and there are slips and a short gown to match. Another long gown is pink nylon satin, dignified as the duchess herself.

A most unusual long gown is tricot, cut with an Empire front, a very low back with a halter treatment, and absolutely no trim of any kind, not even top-stitching. And only $9.

In the bra department, Edith is showing a long-line bra with a very low front, widely spaced straps and a very low back. Bali is the house. Another Bali is a stretch, designed with lots of support for full figures. At the opposite end of the scale is an AA cup in white lace, with just a bit of polyethelene, to make a very young girl feel grown up.

Edith's favorite slip is Warner's Compli-fit, with set-in bodice shaped to fit around a bra. Designed for short or average sizes.

And—but of course you know, Rudy Gernreich's "Nobra" is available. And it's not just a gag—Edith tells her customers that it's a very comfortable garment.

tinue what he calls his program of selective enforcement. "I've specifically instructed all members of my department to crack down," he said.

WERE YOU A PATIENT? Hospital Issues Report. "There is a daily average of 20 to 25 patients awaiting admission to the Hospital for the bed that doesn't exist," stated George W. Conover, president of the Board of Trustees of Princeton Hospital in the Hospital's annual report, presented Monday night to members of the Hospital corporation at their annual meeting.

The Hospital has raised $2 million of its $3.5 million building fund. "We are still $1.5 million short of the necessary funds to commence construction of the new two-and-one-half story patient care wing, the 'J' Building. This building is needed now."

Mr. Conover announced that the Hospital planned to launch an appeal for funds "to every family in the Hospital service area. We need your money!"

Princeton Hospital serves an area extending from East Windsor on the South to Belle Mead and Griggstown on the north, Franklin Park on the east and Pennington and Trenton on the west.

It Could Be You. One out of every eight persons in this area is a patient in Princeton Hospital in the course of a year, according to the Hospital's treasurer, John C. Whitwell.

"Sooner or later," predicted Mr. Whitwell in his report, most of us will visit the Hospital as a patient."

Princeton Hospital's close-hauled financial situation shows up clearly in the income-expense statement for 1964. The Hospital took in more than $3 million in the course of the year $3,335,389.61 to be exact.

But the year's expenses—maintenance, laundry, nursing care, heat, light, water and power and the ice—came so close to the mark that the Hospital wound up its 1964 accounts with only $363.74 left over.

How We've Grown! Growth is the keynote of this year's report, and the growth shows most dramatically in a comparison of Princeton Hospital 20 years later. In 1964, as compared to 1944, there were:

- twice as many beds (212 to 103)
- 3½ times as many admissions (7,945 to 2,147)
- a cut of ½ in the average number of days spent in the Hospital (7.5 as opposed to 10.14)
- almost 16 times as many laboratory procedures (174,883 to 10,861)
- more than 13 times as many X-ray procedures (27,243 to 1,922)
- more than 4 times as many operations (3,164 to 714)
- 3 times as many births (1,049 to 350)

At Monday night's annual meeting, 37 Princeton Hospital employees received service awards.

The dean of the list was Hugh Terry, chef in the Dietary Department, who was cited for 35 years of service. A 20-year award was presented to Virgil Phipps, head porter at "Merwick," and a 15-year award was given to Mrs. Marion McChuskey, supervisor of the Nursing Department.

Ten year awards were given to: Charles Baynard, Miss Florence Haleski, John Kasmarek, Mrs. Ida Rigby, Mrs. Catherine Tylus, and Mrs. Pauline Zawistowski.

Five year wards were received by Miss Jean A. Alito, Mrs. Aileen Bichm, Miss Daisy Dean, William Gantz, Arthur Henderson, Paul Hildebrandt, Mrs. Shirley Holmes, Mrs. Jessie Johnson, Stacy Johnson, Also Miss Mary Kaufman, Luther McKellar, Miss Elaine Naniewicz, Miss Daisy Naylor, Mrs. Lorraine Novatkoski, Miss Marion Procaccino, Miss Ruth Reid, Mrs. Gertrude Remsen, Albert F. Ritardi, Mrs. Cecily Ross, Edgar Spieer, Mrs. Geraldine Smith, Miss Rosemary Stofila, Charles Wyckoff, Miss Lorraine Zarosa, and Dr. Benjamin M. Wright.

Trustees Re-Elected. Five trustees were re-elected to the Board. They are George W. Conover, James S. Hill, A. C. McGuinness, Laurence C. Ward, Jr. and Mr. Whitwell.

Officers were also reelected. They are: Mr. Conover, president; Richard G. Magill, Robert S. Garber and Mr. Hill, vice-presidents; Mr. Whitwell, treasurer; Frederick P. Lawrence, assistant treasurer; Leslie L. Vivian Jr., secretary and John W. Kaufman, hospital administrator, as assistant secretary.

LANDAU
PRINCETON, N.J.

TEN YEARS AGO, on March 1, 1955, we began one of the happiest adventures of our lives — right here in Princeton. We'd like to tell you about it.

We opened in a small store on Witherspoon Street, in the space long occupied by Nat Wolman. We had one employee, and our shelves were stocked with clothing for men, women and children, and with blankets, linens and all sorts of domestic items.

As we made friends, we grew. We began to stock in depth the items our patrons asked for. Gradually we became a ladies' apparel shop. When the opportunity presented itself to us in July 1962, we moved to our present larger quarters on Nassau Street.

But for us, the store has always been more than laden shelves. It has meant familiar faces coming in again and again . . . and smiling new faces. We have enjoyed watching the youngsters grow to college age and adulthood.

We are grateful, too, that all of this has made college educations possible for our four sons.

We thank you for this happy adventure . . . and look forward to the next ten years of friendly relationship with the Princeton community.

Sincerely,

Mr. and Mrs. David Landau

Day election Friday at Princeton High School.

There will be a run-off on Tuesday between Gilbert Turner and Lucy Fogelsong, both of the Roaring Females party, who tied for the ninth spot. The voting machines, loaned by the Mercer County Board of Elections tallied 815 votes—about half of the student body.

Clear winners are Gary Elion, Joseph McKee, Lesley Bush, Sally Fogiesong, Carl Burnes, Frances Strayer, Timothy Barron and Robert Hilton.

The nine winners will form a student Board of Education for Student Administration Day, March 10. Board officers will be elected next week.

Left in limbo are the two party heads, Sandy Northrup and Penny Savage. Traditionally, Sandy is slated to become superintendent of schools and Penny school principal. "But this all depends on how the Board votes," Miss Florence Burke, assistant principal, reports from experience. Student Administration Day Advisor is H. Lee McComahy, who has held the post since 1954.

Serving as SA Day Committee were Robert Anderson, chairman; Ingrid Buck, Martha Pierson, Debbie Endersby, Margaret Greenfield, Marie Graves, Glenn Johnson, Stacy Layton, Linda McCall, George Mikszta, John Valentine, Paul Walstad and Tom Yoder. The election itself was handled by the Student Council.

The Safari platform will be presented to the Borough Board of Education on March 23. The student presentations are one of the highlights of the adult Board's year.

RETAIN WITHERSPOON?

School Board To Study. Vocational education classes may be held at the Witherspoon School, now slated to be emptied when the John Witherspoon Elementary School on Walnut Lane is completed.

A "task force" of Borough school board members has been appointed to study the feasibility of holding an intensive program of vocational education at the 57-year-old school. Mrs. Sarah Strayer, new vice-president of the board, is chairman. Other members are Dr. Harvey D. Rothberg, Thomas Moore (both newcomers to the board) and John A. Buckland.

The building is being offered for sale, "but we're not rushing off anybody," President Graham Rohrer said. The budget for the new school includes $125,000 estimated proceeds from the sale.

The vocational - education project was presented Thursday by Superintendent Chester R. Stroup. It was based on the recent report and recommendations of a state-wide committee whose members included Kenneth Michael, Princeton High School principal.

"A broad expansion of vocational-education has been recommended for the secondary schools," Dr. Stroup said. The program includes expansion of the work-study program, application of home economics study and industrial arts to job opportunities and a program in marketing.

Present Program. The high school, Dr. Stroup pointed out, has a strong business education department, which developed a work-study aspect nearly 30 years ago. Most of the students are girls.

The industrial arts course teaches metal and woodworking and mechanical drawing. It is not a job training course. Most of the boys enrolled are terminal students, Dr. Stroup said.

Six boys are now in a new work-study program at Forrestal. ("We have 20 seniors a year who could profit from this.") The students work four hours a day, mostly in the machine shop, and study four hours at the high school.

In response to a question from Dr. Robert A. Lively of the board, he stated that the potential enrollment in vocational education courses is from 10% to 15% of the student body, about 170.

Cost. Reconversion of Witherspoon School ("We have practically put in a whole new heating unit this winter!") is estimated to cost $25,000. This includes expansion of the equipment now at the high school. About 10 additional teachers would be required, in addition to present staff members, at a cost of some $70,000. Dr. Stroup added that he believed Federal funds are available for equipment.

"It has occurred to us that we have at Witherspoon a facility that would be an excellent aid in our vocational-education program," Dr. Conant recommends that schools be all-inclusive, and Witherspoon is close enough for students to take some classes there and some at the high school."

President Rohrer noted that there probably should be a public question on the matter. He requested the committee to study the project with Borough and State school representatives.

BIRTHS

Books on Princeton Coffee-Tables

A pair of off-beat titles appear this month for the first time in TOWN TOPICS' list of best-sellers, and an old favorite remains for the fourth month in a row. Here they are:

FICTION

"Funeral in Berlin," Leo Delghloe. (Princeton Book Mart, University Store, Public Library). Cashing in with those who are fond of Bond and carried away by Le Carre. (Although says the library, we still can't keep "Herzog" on the shelves.)

"The Man," Irving Wallace. (Male's Book Shop) Here's one of those sleepers we mentioned. About a Negro President of the United States.

NON-FICTION

"Catherine the Great," Zoe Oldenbourg. (Princeton Book Mart, University Store). Second of our two surprise listings.

"Life with Picasso," Francoise Gilot. (Public Library). A controversial portrait. Whose side are you on?

"Markings," Dag Hammerskjold. (Male's Book Shop). Fourth month in a row for this book at Male's.

RECOMMENDED. . . .

"Hungry Nations," William and Paul Paddock. (Princeton Book Mart.) Title explains itself.

"The Final Beast," Frederick Buechner. (University Store) New book by the young novelist who once taught at Lawrenceville.

"Mallabec," David Walker. (Public Library) The novel of a marriage, beautifully descriptive of the Canadian outdoors.

"Queen Victoria," Elizabeth Longford. (Male's Book Shop). The first comprehensive biography since Strachey.

WAS THAT $33 MILLION?

Yes, and It's Only a Start. When President Robert F. Goheen announced at Saturday's annual alumni luncheon that Princeton had been awarded $33 million, including one gift of $27 million, the disclosure was greeted with gasps of astonishment.

But Dr. Goheen explained to the startled and pleased audience that the funds represented but a beginning of a proposed drive for $150 million over a ten-year period. "More than $150 million in new capital needed over the next ten years! Sounds fantastic, doesn't it?" Dr. Goheen asked rhetorically.

He noted, however, that the past decade has seen a flow of dollars into Princeton "of that same order of magnitude." He supplied a number of reasons why it was important that the flow continue.

The $27 million gift, which sent the long-range campaign off to a fine start, was the donation of the late Mrs. Stanley P. Jadwin, a lifetime resident of Brooklyn and the mother of L. Stockwell Jadwin, who was killed in an auto accident a year after his graduation from Princeton in 1928. Dr. Goheen described Mrs. Jadwin as "a great lady" who since the death of her son, and her husband seven years later, had been seeking to create a memorial to them at Princeton.

And the Rest. The balance of the $33 million was contributed by William W. Smith ($3.5 million) and by the recently-dissolved James Foundation ($2.5 million). The bequests, Dr. Goheen said, will "give us a strong nucleus upon which to build the large totals required over the decade ahead."

In the immediate future, portions of the donations will be used for the construction of graduate student apartments and the recently-announced all-purpose sports arena. Overall, added Princeton's president, about 20 percent of the $150 million will be used for physical facilities and the remainder will support "direct investment in persons and programs."

Other recipients at the mid-winter alumni meeting besides the University were Attorney General Nicholas deB. Katzenbach, who was presented with the Woodrow Wilson Award, and Michael E. Smith, chairman of the undergraduate Council, who was awarded the Pyne Prize. The awards respectively are the highest Princeton bestows upon an alumnus and an undergraduate.

Mr. Katzenbach, a member of the Class of 1943, had served as acting attorney general after the resignation of Robert F. Kennedy and was elevated to full Cabinet status by President Johnson last month. Mr. Katzenbach has been an active figure in the civil rights struggle and was successful in leading the efforts to enroll Negroes at the Universities of Mississippi and Alabama.

Mr. Smith, a native of Darien, Conn., is a Rhodes Scholar-designate and was the starting center on Princeton's football team. He is an honors student majoring in English.

HAMILTON TO RESIGN

Pittendrigh Is Replacement. Donald R. Hamilton, Dean of the Graduate School for the past seven years, will resign from Princeton University as of July 1. His successor will be Prof. Colin S. Pittendrigh of the biology department.

Dr. Hamilton, a 50-year-old native of Hartford, Vt., has been a member of the department of physics since 1946. He was the youngest educator ever to be named dean of the graduate school at Princeton. (See "Man of the Week.")

title of Class of 1077 Professor of Zoology.

A 46-year old English-born scientist, Professor Pittendrigh became an American citizen in 1950 and in 1958 was elected to the American Academy of Arts and Sciences.

In 1963, he was granted membership in the National Academy of Sciences and was appointed to his current professorship. He has served as an adviser on malaria to both the Brazilian government and the British Colonial Office in Trinidad and is currently a member of the Space Science Board of the National Academy of Sciences.

HOADLEY HONORED

By Pennington Jaycees. David N. Hoadley, 24 East Welling Avenue, Pennington, will be honored next Saturday March 6, at a dinner at Landwehr's Restaurant where he will receive a Distuinguished Service Award from the Pennington Jaycees. Mr. Hoadley, whom the Jaycees earlier named as their outstanding Man of the Year, is being honored for his outstanding service to the Pennington community.

A graduate of Yale University, Mr. Hoadley was formerly president of the Pennington Jaycees and is a past state Jaycee vice-president. He is a member of the Pennington Borough Council and served on the Pennington Tercentenary Committee.

THREE ARE FINED

In Township Court. Three motorists were fined last Wednesday by Township magistrate Glenn B. Miller Jr.

John P. West, 21, 104 Patton Hall, Princeton University, and Russell P. Baltzer, 18, 536 Rosedale Road, were fined $20 and $15 for careless driving. For failing to yield at a stop sign, Hayward Greenland, 80, 68 Mountain Avenue, paid $15.

UNIQUE PARTY PLANNED

By Mt. Holyoke Alumnae. Princeton area graduates of Mt. Holyoke College will participate with fellow alumnae in 47 other communities in a unique birthday party on Sunday. A telephone broadcast will serve as the means of the communication between the cities.

The celebration marks the birthday of Mary Lyon, the founder of the Mt. Holyoke Female Seminary in 1837. Area alumnae will gather at Edmund Cook & Company, 190 Nassau Street, where special telephone equipment has been installed for the occasion.

Taking part in the 5 p.m. broadcast will be Richard G. Gettell, the college's president; Mrs. Edward R. Murrow, trustee and chairman of the school's National Fund for the Future; faculty members, administrative officers and students. Invitations have been sent to 270 residents of the Princeton area and to more than $2,500 across the nation.

WELL CONTAMINATED

In Rocky Hill. Harmful bacteria have been discovered in a well which supplies Rocky Hill with about 25% of its water supply, and extra chlorine is being added to purify any water that might be taken from the well.

At the February meeting of Borough Council, Rocky Hill Councilmen pointed out that the well (Number 1) is not usually needed during the winter, anyway. Dye tests will be made to find out where the contamination is coming from.

Mrs. Marcella Farley has been retained by the Rocky Hill Board of Health to conduct a survey of the community's sanitary problems and to uncover and document any violations of health regulations. She will work with the Board of Health on a part-time basis starting March 15.

Mrs. Farley is the health officer of Princeton Township, and Rocky Hill Councilman Mrs. I.N. Rhodes questioned the appointment in view of Mrs. Farley's Princeton position.

Council has decided to amend the Rocky Hill zoning ordinance so that a swimming pool will be defined legally as a "structure." Such a definition will mean that a pool, either permanent or temporary, will have to be at least 30 feet from a property line. It will also enable Council to require swimming pool fences to be at least 54 inches high.

Kester Pierson, Borough attorney, told Council that the landing strip maintained by Richard Young in the back yard of the Youngs' Crescent Avenue home, was a legitimate non-conforming use; however, he reminded Council that zoning matters were the provenance of the Board of Adjustment, rather than of Council.

Council has decided to paint the outside of Borough Hall this Spring. Volunteers from the Rocky Hill community will clean the inside, and furnish the main room with tables, lights, flags and a vestibule. The room will then be used for Council meetings.

soloist, and director of the Princeton Community Band, will perform and explain.

The program, which will start at 2, will be held in the first floor auditorium of Borough Hall, but the Junior Museum will be open before and after the program so that youngsters can see the February exhibit of sound, music and acoustics.

$11,000 AWARDED

To Hospital Fund. The Princeton Junior Chamber of Commerce has presented a check for $11,048.35 to the Princeton Hospital Building Fund.

The check represents the chapter's share of proceeds earned from the 1964 Jaycee Football Classic. It was accepted by George W. Conover, president of the hospital's board of trustees, at a program held last week. Harold Westgaard, the chapter president, made the presentation.

The area chapter has distributed more than $22,000 to community groups in the last three years. Overall, the New Jersey Jaycees have collected $450,000 from the annual contest between the New York Giants and Philadelphia Eagles of the National Football League.

HOW TO LIVE

With Your Family. "Successful Family Living: Can It Be Taught?" is the subject of a program to be given Wednesday, March 3 at 12 noon under the joint sponsorship of the Family Service Agency and the Council of Community Services.

The program, which will be held at the YMCA, will feature Carl A. Scott as guest speaker. Mr. Scott is co-ordinator of training programs for the Child

CÔTE d'OR by Thomasville

Bored with the prosaic? Seeking the memorable? Here's furniture with the feeling of sunlit, faraway places to brighten life for years to come. There's a bit of France's Cote d' Or in the romantically curved round table and chairs . . . there's a definite Spanish flavor in the spindles, dramatic pierced latticework, bold carved medallions. Fine native pecan veneers add texture and interest . . . touches of acacia burl veneer and intricate patterns of cherry veneered inlays provide contrast.

LICENSES SUSPENDED

For Three Drivers. Three Princeton residents have had their driving licenses suspended for 30 days by the New Jersey Division of Motor Vehicles.

The area residents are Mrs Roger B. Kirkpatrick, 49, Cherry Valley Road; Elizabeth W. Gibson, 51, 116 Patton Avenue; Charles A. Hurford, 30, 197 Shadybrook Lane. The penalties were issued for speeding violations.

WE HELP YOUR CHILD

With "Special Services." The special services available to school children in Princeton Township will be explained to parents on Wednesday, March 3, at 8:15 at a program to be held at Community Park School.

The Community Park Parent Teacher Organization will present Mrs. Martha Montgomery, school psychologist; Richard Shurleff, school psychometrist; Miss Diane Pollo, speech teacher and Miss Kathryn Whyte, school nurse coordinator.

TO DISCUSS ELIOT

At Library. Dr. Donald Eckroyd of Temple University will discuss the works of the late T. S. Eliot at the Princeton Public Library at 8 on Tuesday.

Dr. Eckroyd, an associate professor of speech, is a resident of Ewing Township who has conducted workshops at the library and presented book reviews at the Princeton Jewish Center. The public is invited to attend the Tuesday program.

Professor Eckroyd will also deliver readings from other authors during March and April. On March 17 he will discuss the works of Mary McCarthy; Dorothy Parker will be his subject a week later; the writing of Shirley Jackson will be examined the following week; and Carson McCullers will be the subject under discussion on April 7. All lectures will begin at 10:30 a.m.

VALENTINE PARTY SET

For St. Michael's Home. The Catholic Daughters of America Court Moran 376, will hold its annual Valentine Party Sunday at 1:30 for the St. Michael's Children's Home in Hopewell.

Folk music will be part of the entertainment planned by the organization whose members will also donate the refreshments. Additional information concerning the party may be obtained from Mrs. Anna Boccanfuso, 182 Linden Lane.

Our business is "beauty." We want our customers to have normal, healthy skin and hair. Your skin and hair among your most prized possessions. To help keep them in tip-top condition, they need care. We firmly believe that the "protein" products offered by REDKEN will be just what you are looking for P.P.T. "S-77" is a hair and skin conditioner, and FEXDS the skin and hair as well as the body.

At TAVERNWOOD we offer you a BOOKLET which presents a number of "home cosmetics" formulas. For example:

DRY, ROUGH
SCALY ELBOWS

The "recipe" presented softens skin, eliminates dryness, restores pliability in only a few days. Keeps elbows smooth and soft.

CAUTION: Keep in refrigerator after mixing as P.P.T. is a food and once mixed with water will spoil unless refrigerated, just as food would spoil.

The P.P.T. herein referred to, and used in ALL of REDKEN cosmetic formulations may be purchased in our TAVERNWOOD BEAUTY SALON for a nominal price in 1 oz. containers. Make Your Crowning Glory worthy of its name! Visit TAVERNWOOD at 59 PALMER SQ. WEST or CALL 924-3983.

Vacations Evaluated

The value of the mid-winter vacation, in effect in Princeton since 1964, is being questioned by the Borough Board of Education.

Alternate proposals include a two-week vacation at Christmas, a shortened school year, and a one-and-a-half week Christmas vacation plus a long weekend in February.

Dr. Robert A. Lively and several other members stated that the present winter recess prolongs the school year well into the third week of June. From statistics compiled, the board was unable to discern a health pattern in relation to the recess.

Members also mentioned the relationship of study units to present timing of vacations, and the childcare problem of working mothers.

GROUND IS BROKEN

For Chambers St. Building. Grouod was broken last week for construction of a $265,000, four-story office building on Chambers Street. The site was formerly occupied by the Nassau-Conover Motor Company now headquarters on Route 208.

Princeton's newest office building will house commercial enterprises on its first floor. The building permit was issued to the Edgerstoune Realty Corporation.

S. D. & B. MOVES

And Celebrates Anniversary. Sturhahn, Dickenson and Bernard, the insurance firm, will move this week-end to a new location, and will open its doors Monday morning at 14 Nassau in the former Princeton Bank and Trust Building.

At the same time, S. D. and B. will celebrate more or less its 20th anniversary. "The Princeton Agency" was founded in 1944 by H. C. (Cobbie") Sturhahn, but is was not until 1960 that Mr. Sturhahn was joined by Melville P. Dickenson Jr. and John F. Bernard to form the insurance agency that exists today.

For the past five years, S. D. and B. has been located at 17 Chambers Street. The move to the old bank building will mean that office space will be doubled—to 2,000 square, feet. The agency has a staff of four agent-brokers, (the three partners and George P. Cramer Jr.) and an office staff of six.

S. D. and B. will occupy only the front half of the old bank building. The rear half, according to Edmund Cook and Company, agents for the structure, is available for either one or two offices.

An old elevator which used to run between first floor and basement, will be removed, and an entrance to the rear offices will be built on Bank Street. The address for these rear offices will, however, be 12 Nassau in spite of the Bank Street access. A new shop, "Deep Country Clothes," has opened in the basement area, offices on the second floor.

Princeton Bank and Trust still maintains its bookeeping offices on the second floor rear of the building. The second floor front is available for rental. The third floor will eventually be apartments.

BANK CLIMBS 26 PLACES

Ranks 700th. Princeton Bank and Trust now ranks 700th among commercial banks in the United States.

The rating was announced this week by the trade publication, "American Banker," together with comparative figures showing that the bank ranked 726th in last year's compilation. There are 13,673 banks in the country.

Princeton Bank and Trust reported deposits of $48,782,767 as of December 31, 1964. A year ago, the bank's deposits were $42,080,000.

NEEDED: TWO WHEELS

Architect Suggests Bicycles. Princeton as an ideal bicycle community. Or it could be, with the proper kind of planning.

Charles K. Agle, architect, has studied the possibility of bicycle paths in the Princeton community and has set forth his ideas, with charts and a map, comprehensive report.

"Any bike in use can mean one car off the streets," states Mr. Agle, estimating that in the immediate future in the

CAN A SCOOTER COME, TOO? Todd de Borio, left, would like a ruling on the eligibility of scooters on the network of bicycle paths proposed by Charles K. Angle. Todd's big brother, Charles (center) and his friend, Bill Baker, examine a map to decide whether to take the high road or the low road. Story on Mr. Agle's bicycle proposition in "Topics of the Town."

Princeton area, there may well be 16,000 automobiles or, in his words, "quite a mess."

"As the population increases" Mr. Agle continues, "the traffic generated by 10,000 school children will become increasingly undesirable, not to say unbearable, whether this be by school bus or parent driving." On the day of the Yale game, there are approximately 10,000 cars in motion in Princeton, Mr. Agle says, by way of comparison.

Bus" No. The architect suggests that school bus transportation be discouraged. "Bicycling is excellent exercise for children," he suggests, adding that if children bike to school, they can stay after school for sports or social activities, and become more self-reliant than they are now.

But "children and cars do not mix" Mr. Agle states. And to provide safe bike-ways for children, he proposes that:

- New sidewalks be six feet wide and on one side of the street only. They should be blacktop which is easier to maintain and gives a smoother ride than concrete.
- Bike routes should avoid streets, and bike paths should be laid out through open spaces and back lots, perhaps even through Princeton cemetery. ("The peace and dignity of the cemetery, the beauty of simple markers hundreds of years old, should be brought to light as an influence on our children.")
- In built-up areas, parking should be forbidden on one side of the street and a chain-link fence erected if the sidewalk is close to lanes of moving traffic. (Mr. Agle cites Chestnut Street as an example.)
- Major routes should reach all parks and recreation areas and all school sites.
- Routes should be the easiest line to follow so that children will take them naturally and automatically.
- Bicycle path crossings should be given precedence over vehicular movement, perhaps by the installation of rough pavements of cobblestones, rippled concrete, washboard warnings, or stop signs.

On A Sunday Afternoon. But it is not only children whom Mr. Agle has in mind. He reminds Princeton residents of the charms of Lake Carnegie and the Stony Brook area, both inaccessible by car, or even in some cases, by foot.

Both lake and brook should be developed for weekend pleasure riding for all age groups, including "adults, who need the exercise, anyway," says Mr. Agle in his proposals.

He also suggests bicycle travel between University dormitories, classroom buildings and "even to Forrestal."

To implement his plan, Mr. Agle invites cooperation by the five municipalities concerned with Lake Carnegie, Stony Brook and the canal. He proposes the exploration of a new principle: that schools have a responsibility for the safe access of their pupils to the school plants, and on he asks Boards of Education to participate in a bicycle study, pointing out that the saving on annual school bus transportation could finance extensive capital improvements.

Question of the Week

Question: Some U. S. Senators are demanding that the United States negotiate a cease-fire settlement in Viet Nam. What is your opinion?

Where asked: Nassau Street.

John Emerson, Old Highstown Road, Princeton Junction, PHS sophomore: I think they should try for a cease-fire. If they don't, there is the possibility it will lead to another major war. Then we'll all be back on the level of the cave man again.

David Martz, Princeton-Highstown Road, PHS sophomore: I don't think they should try to make any kind of a settlement. I think we should stay in Viet Nam and finish it up one way or the other.

Philip D'Arms, 940 Kingston Road, worker for anti-poverty program, Trenton: I think right now it would be a loss to pull out or negotiate a cease-fire. Nothing has been gained so far and many lives that have already been lost will have been sacrificed for nothing. Unless the United Nations goes in or until a new treaty is established between the United States and South Viet Nam, I don't think there can be a cease fire. I also feel until the Vietnamese people themselves know what they want, it will be hard for us to have an effective policy there.

Mrs. Eileen Summerfield, Kingston Road, housewife: Yes, I think there should be a cease-fire. I don't think we're getting anywhere there. We don't even seem to have the sympathy of South Viet Nam. It's too easy for the Viet Cong to bomb our officers' quarters so the Vietnamese must be collaborating. How else can it be so easy to do all these acts of sabotage? We're trusting them to guard our soldiers and they're just not doing it. As a result, we're losing too many American lives. I don't think we can win in Viet Nam short of a nuclear war with China and we certainly don't want that.

Arthur Kaler, South Orange, investigator for the federal government: No, I don't think it would be wise. To me, it would indicate to the Communist countries that we are not prepared to stand firm in our present committment to Viet Nam.

Neville Smythe, 18 Vandeventer Avenue, graduate student: I don't think a cease-fire is feasible. I'm from Australia and I don't think the United States can withdraw without serious repercussions. If Viet Nam goes, Malaysia has to go — eventually — and Malaysia is extremely important to Australia. But it's more than a question of that. It's a question of China. Something is going to have to happen soon as far as Red China is concerned. Otherwise we'll just wait until she becomes a major nuclear power and then we'll really be in trouble.

Mrs. Frederick English, 290 Prospect Avenue, housewife: I don't think so. When China was taken over by the Communists we didn't so much as lift a finger and Viet Nam is just a drop in the bucket compared to China. They say if we lose Viet Nam, we'll lose all of Southeast Asia to the Communists. But who knows what will happen. I think our boys should come home. I agree we should try to get a cease-fire in Viet Nam.

Frederick Fox, 28 Vandeventer Avenue, recording secretary, Princeton University: My hope, of course, would be to see a cease-fire not only in Viet Nam but everywhere. But —and it's a great big 'but' — the requirements of the day in that particular area — of which I know so little about — might require the continued presence of American strength and power.

Mrs. Alice Gerb, 290 Snowden Lane, housewife: I think our committment in Viet Nam is something we've backed into rather than entered from any firm convictions. We entered the political arena in Southeast Asia hoping we could support a stable government, but obviously our efforts have not succeeded. In view of what has happened I certainly think we should re-examine our position and our goals.

Thomas Arlin, Roosevelt, graduate student, comparative literature: I don't feel we are accomplishing anything there, but, more than that, I don't think we have much right to be there in the first place. There's been a lot of talk about self determination and keeping freedom in Viet Nam when everybody knows if free elections were held there, as provided for in the Geneva agreement in 1954, the Communists would win. The Geneva Agreement provided that three years from that date free elections would be held to reunify North and South Viet Nam under one regime. Because we knew the outcome, South Viet Nam and the U.S. resisted, so it is a little hypocritical for us and the South Vietnamese to talk of freedom.

Leo Geali, Philadelphia, salesman for Cresco Manufacturing Co.: In the position we're in right now, I feel we can't negotiate a cease-fire. We're too involved to pull out now. Actually, we haven't caused any defeat of the enemy. The Viet Nam people themselves don't know what is going on and until they get an idea of what is expected of them I think we have to stay. We're in an awkward position, no question. It's rough. But if we go out now we'll lose face in Southeast Asia. France found that out; they got it in the teeth. It's hard staying but I think this is what we have to do.

Seymour Rosenberg, The Great Road, retired. Sure, I'm in favor of a cease-fire if anybody can think of any way we can do it. How can it be done? I don't see how we're ever going to settle it. It's also a religious war between the Catholics and the Buddhists. The last religious war lasted 300 years. It's a sad situation. Just dreadful. If we settle the war in Viet Nam, we know the Chinese will go into some other country. President Johnson must do something, but I feel he has become overly sensitive to criticism.

WIZARD OF OZ PLANNED

By Skating Carnival. One of the production numbers of the Skating Carnival to be performed next month by the Princeton Skating Club will be the "Wizard of OZ." The carnival, officially sanctioned by the U.S. Figure Skating Association, will be held at Baker Rink on March 12 and 13.

Among those who will take part in the junior production of "Wizard" are Mrs. Robert J. Sullivan, carnival chairman and her daughter, Martha; Mrs. Hans Eichenberger and her daughter, Heidi; Mrs. Walter F. Murphy and her daughter, Holly; and Mrs. Chapin Carpenter and her daughter, McKenzie.

Also, Mrs. John Murray's two daughters, Ellen and Beth and the four children of Mrs. Lucien Yokana: Isabella, Alice, Lucien and Alexander. Lester Tibbals' daughter, Roxanne will have a role, as will Mark, the son of Mr. and Mrs. William Goldstein of Trenton.

John Bernard will momentarily desert his Peewee hockey duties to play the Cowardly Lion, while his daughter, Shelley, plays a poppy. Paul Douglas and his daughter Carol, will also participate.

Mrs. Petterson Marconi is staging co-chairman with Mrs. J. Harris Mosher. Mrs. Marconi's son, Terry, and daughter, Dale, will perform in a pair speciality.

ANTIQUE SHOW AHEAD

For Wellesley Alumnae. Spurred by the success of previous antique shows—last year's raised $3,200—alumnae of Wellesley living in the Princeton area will hold their sixth annual antiques show and sale on March 30, 31 and April 1.

The benefit will be held at Princeton Country Day School, Broadmead, from noon to 10 p.m. the first two days and from noon to 6 p.m. April 1. Admission will be $1, and a buffet luncheon and tea will be served each of the three days until 5 p.m.

Antiques dealers from communities ranging from New England to Pennsylvania will exhibit and sell their specialties. Furniture designed for country or formal homes, clocks, jewelry, Sandwich glass, china and pewter will all be on display.

Proceeds from the antiques shows are used for scholarship awards and to support increases in faculty salaries at Wellesley.

Mrs. Henry S. Broad, president of the Wellesley Club of Central New Jersey, and Mrs. George L. Mellor Jr., will be co- chairmen. Their committee chairmen will be Mesdames H. Dana Fearon III, Fenn Stafford, Donald W. Griffin, Donald N. Wilber, Robert N. Pease, Gerrish Rubber, Anthony W. Tabell, William S. Cooke, Theodore A. Peck Jr., Richard Pearson and Sterling Anders.

DEBORAH DINNER SET

For Fund Raising. The Princeton Chapter of Deborah Hospital will hold a spaghetti dinner at the Italian American Sportsmen's Club on March 20 from 5.30 to 8:30.

The dinner is planned as a fund-raising event for the charitable organization which supplies free care for patients suffering from chest ailments and heart disease. Tickets are priced at $1.75 for adults and at $1 for children and may be purchased at the door or by calling 921-6300.

RALLY SCHEDULED

By Area Girl Scouts. The Girl Scouts of Princeton will sponsor an international rally Sunday, March 14, at 2:30 in the Campus Center of the Princeton Theological Seminary.

The program will feature a display of dolls from around the world. Those making plans for the event are Leila Shabender, Robin Stewart and Katherine Stewart of Troop 9; Karen Bener, Jeannine Evans, Troop 14, Mindy Jones, Lucinda Herrick, Troop 27.

Also, Roberta Kafrin, Jane Lindquist, Troop 75; Stephanie Mager, Gwen Thomas, Troop 12, Barbara Sejnoski, Carol Rich, Margaret Tyson, Troop 7; Elizabeth Werenfels, Ellen Hook, Troop 18; and Wendy Lindquist, Troop 98; Ellen Spinner, Troop 15. Mrs. Philip Hammond is the coordinator of the program.

TO GREET NEW MEMBERS

At Women's Club Meeting. The Women's College Club of Princeton will hold a tea for its new members Monday from 3 to 6 in the home of Mrs. Mark M. Jones of 159 Library Place.

Also, Roy M. Vance, Leslie L. Vivian Jr., Thomas L. Waite, Robert A. Winters, Frank Glauter, Gino Traves, Gus Zimmerman, Edward Rossiter, Robert B. Steward, Robert White, Richard Crandall, Richard W. Barden, Charles E. Graf, James H. Mooney, Ahmed Azmy, John Helmick, Paul Swensson and Miss Elvira Jones.

Windsor Township Board of Education. A board member for eight years, Mr. Craig is director of student services at Princeton University.

William R. Linke was elected vice-president, succeeding Bernard Mount, who has retired from the Board. Clarence E. Reed was appointed acting secretary until June 30. At that time the board will select its first full-time secretary.

The board has decided to change its meeting place to the library of the Maurice Hawk School. A public session is set for March 15.

The board also has appointed Mr. Linke and John R. Janick to study the possibility of issuing agendas to individuals attending its public meetings. No attorney was named, the Board deciding to employ one when needed in preference to annually appointed counsel.

UPSALA TRIP PLANNED

For High School Girls. The YWCA will sponsor a trip to Upsala College Saturday, March 6, for area high school girls.

Departure from the Y will be at 9:30 a.m. with the return scheduled for 3 in the afternoon. There will be a tour of the campus, a question and answer session with the director of admissions and a luncheon. Those interested should contact Mrs. Janet Humes at the YWCA by Saturday.

DIRECTOR NAMED

For UJA Campaign. Frank Edelman, director of operations research at RCA Laboratories, will again head the 1965 fund-raising campaign of the Princeton United Jewish Appeal.

He will be assisted by Mrs. Irvin Vine and Irwin Gordon, executive vice-chairmen; Mrs. Harry J. Winthrop, secretary; Harold Borkan, treasurer; Mrs. Morris Handelsman, financial secretary; and Mrs. Benjamin Miller, publicity. Agencies sponsored by the drive conduct rescue and rehabilitation work in Israel, Moslem countries, Europe and the United States.

SHOPS TO CONTRIBUTE

To Heart Fund Drive. Princeton merchants participating in the February Heart Fund drive will donate 5% of their sales on Thursday to fight the disease.

Stores participating in the campaign may be identified by a red heart poster in their windows. They include the Army-Navy Store, Continental Barber Shop, Grigg's Texaco, La Grotto, Harris' Department Store, Hill's Market, Lahlere's Restaurant, Princeton Clothing, the Radio Center, Tiger Auto and Urken Supply all on Witherspoon Street.

On Nassau Street participating merchants are Renwick's, Johnson and Ferarra's Garage, the Wash-O-Mat, DeLuxe Barber Shop, Mr. Robert of Princeton, Maurice Pearce, Esquire Luncheonette, University Radio Electric, Viking Furniture, Masheron's Sunoco, Also Princeton Gulf Service, The Carousel, Nassau TV, NEAT Delicatessen, Richie's Mobil Service, Al Ross' Sinclair Station and Arthur J. GLEE CLUB TO SING

In Pennington. The Pennington Women's Club will sponsor a concert by the Rutgers University Glee Club at 8:30 p.m. on Saturday, March 13, at Hopewell Township Central High School.

Admission is $1.25; tickets are available at the door.

TO DISCUSS CURRICULUM

At Riverside Program. Parents of children in kindergarten through third grades will meet Wednesday to discuss the language arts curriculum at Riverside School. A week later the program will be repeated for parents of children in grades four and five.

The meetings will begin at 8 and will include discussion with the grade teachers who participate in the program at the school. Donald M. Wolfe, professor of English at Brooklyn College will give a talk on creative writing at next week's meeting.

SCIENCE FILM PLANNED

For University Women. The Princeton Branch of the American Association of University Women will sponsor a showing of a motion picture on genetics Wednesday at 8:15 in the Riverside School.

The program is the first in a three-part series coordinated by Dr. Jean Simmons, the organization's national implementation chairman. The Bell Telephone Company film "Thread of Life" will be presented.

WALK IN AND BE COUNTED: A custom-built electronic computer, designed and made by Bill Koch especially for the Princeton Junior Museum, has now been installed in the Museum where it counts the people who come in. Bill, now a high school freshman, made his computer in the Valley Road electronics shop under the direction of Kenneth Bowers, science teacher. Using photo-electric cells, the computer presents the numbers it counts in the binary system. It can handle anything up to four digits. (Left to right) Andy Baird, Bill Koch, "Lizzie" (that's the computer's name) and, waiting to cross the beam and be counted, Cornelia Lively, Mark Tyson and Fred Tyson. (Lanny Hoffman Photo)

Of B'nai B'rith Meeting

James S. Bennett, program consultant of the Anti-Defamation League of B'nai B'rith, will deliver a talk entitled "Danger on the Right" on Thursday, March 4, at 8:30 in the Princeton Jewish Center.

Mr. Bennett is participating in a training program which prepares 50 people each year for work in the field of inter-group relations. The meeting will be sponsored by B'nai B'rith Women of Princeton and is open to the public free of charge.

SERVICE REPORT ISSUED

By New Jersey MC Chapter. The Central New Jersey Chapter of the National Multiple Sclerosis Society has released the report of its service activities during the past year.

The chapter serviced 197 requests for assistance during 1964 from 79 patients. The breakdown is as follows: 21 for physical therapy treatments, eight for visiting nurse service, 14 for homemaker services, six for neurological examinations, ten for medications, 63 for appliances, 75 for literature and information.

Mrs. Alvan Campbell Jr., vice-president of the chapter, also reported on the results of a survey in which nearly 200 patients were interviewed to determine which services might need changing or augmenting. Most patients indicated their approval while noting that they desired more social activity within their own communities.

The chapter's service report said that 188 patients received 684 hours of social service and 28 homebound patients received 336 visits from the chapter's 19 volunteer visitors. Also, 38 patients attended six events while 16 others participated in 39 arts and crafts classes.

The organization lent 31 wheelchairs, 13 walkers, five lifts, 11 hospital beds, nine crutches and 48 other pieces of equipment. Nearly $1,500 was spent on equipment.

BUILDING ACQUIRED

By Area Boy Scouts. The George Washington Council of the Boy Scouts of America has arranged for the transfer of a building and parking area on Route 1 formerly used by the Howard Johnson Restaurant chain.

The building is now owned by the Heinemann Electric Company. The council will use the quarters for a proposed service center and administration headquarters. The electric company agreed to give the building to the Boy Scout organization at a recent board of trustees meeting.

The Honorable Arthur S. Lane, president of the council, said the gift "will make a marvelous headquarters and service center and is ideally located." The building will undergo extensive interior reconstruction to accommodate the needed office space.

The council headquarters are currently located on Parkside Avenue in Trenton. The organization serves 146 sponsoring institutions which help support more than 7,000 Boy Scouts including those in Mercer County.

BAPTISTS HEAD TO SPEAK

On Religion in Russia. Dr. Paul S. James, director of Southern Baptist work in New York at the city's Baptist Association, will discuss his recent trip to Russia in the Nassau Inn Sunday at 7:45. The public is invited free of charge.

The program will include the presentation of color slides and will center on religious worship in four Soviet cities. Dr. James visited Russia as a guest of the Soviet Union's baptists.

NASA DISPLAY PLANNED

By Whig-Clio Society. The Whig-Cliosophic Society of Princeton University will present an exhibit created by the National Aeronautics and Space Administration in the Student Center on March 10, from 8 a.m. to midnight.

The display consists of 94 photographs showing highlights of the past five years of space exploration by the United States. The exhibit is being made available throughout the nation and Canada. There will be no admission charge.

Sophomore's Delight: Some luckless freshmen, with coats inside out are horsed by sophomores by being forced to climb into a room in Hamilton Hall. Horsing officially came to an end in 1914 but from time to time, sophomores have continued to harass bumptious freshmen. When horsing, the sophomores often wore "horsing hats," hence the berets.

The scene may change but since 1904 the quality, service and the integrity of the "U" Store remains the same . . . you can depend on it!

Post Office Site Opposed.
To the Editor of Town Topics:

Brava! for Mr. Van de Velde's letter in the February 10th Town Topics.

Aren't any of our local officials taking care of the small property owner? Why do we have zoning ordinances and planning boards, if time after time they are set aside for variances?

Not too long ago when the subject of the new Borough elementary school on Walnut Lane was discussed, there was a great deal said about traffic patterns. What has happened to that concept now?

Harrison Street (which is basically a street of families and easy with young children) already seems to bear more than its share of the traffic. R.C.A. opens its gates several times a day into it, and the congestion at the shopping center is well known.

Twice in one month I saw a car entering the shopping center through the "out" lane, and there was great confusion created up traffic until the ladies finally got through.

Valley Road has been a busy street for several years now. And that, too, is a street with many young children, and the direct route to another school.

How could anyone, with the real interest of Princeton at heart, want to bring a Post Office to such an area?

RICHARD E. WEDEL

North Harrison Street

Advertisement Questioned.
To the Editor of Town Topics:

Dear Sir:

It seems to me that Town Topics could reasonably have refused to run that nauseating paid advertisement headed "Declaration of Conscience." I know business is business and furthermore we wish to avoid discrimination, etc., but must we put up with the Moscow-Peking line to the hometown weekly?

FRANCIS X. HURLEY

217 Harrison Street

Editor's Note: While TOWN TOPICS in no way agreed with the opinions expressed in the advertisement inserted by the Princeton Fellowship of Reconciliation, it is worth pointing out that the forces seeking to conquer South Vietnam are wholly opposed to the freedom of speech. The thought in accepting it for publication was to preserve it here.

A Veteran Replies.
To the Editor of Town Topics:

Dear Sir:

In reply to the recent "Declaration of Conscience" against the war in Vietnam, I should like to make the following replies:

(1) The communists in South-east Asia today want the same thing that communists in all places and at all times have always wanted. They simply want more. Ultimately they want everything.

(2) Their religion, which is nothing more than Communism itself, teaches them that the end always justifies the means chosen to attain it. This includes armed aggression which has assumed many forms in recent years.

(3) It has been demonstrated many times that there is no possibility of negotiating with any communist in good faith. One need only start at Yalta, to continue to Korea, and to end at the neutral agreement regarding Laos to prove the point.

(4) It is stated in the "Declaration" that nonviolence is the answer to the situation in Vietnam. It is stated that the military resources of this country are being used to suppress "the aspirations of the people for political independence and economic freedom."

Can it be that the proponents of the article believe that the communists are benevolent and that they understand any language except that of strength? It is clear that the aspirations which are being suppressed are those of the communists.

(5) If we do not resist Communism today in Asia, then we will have to do so in another place in the future. To postpone the problem is not to solve it; to postpone the problem is only to complicate it. It seems preferable to resist this evil as far as possible from our shores.

The supporters of the article will, no doubt, have many replies to the above facts. They will say that I do not have all of the pertinent facts and that I do not understand the implications of modern nuclear war.

It is true that no layman has any facts other than those carried by the news media. However, I served in the armed forces for a year in Southeast Asia (Okinawa).

During that time I had occasion to meet many of our military advisors to Vietnam. I have witnessed the nuclear explosions, and have collected radioactive fallout from such tests.

I know no secrets, but I also feel that I am better informed about these matters than the signers of the advertisement. I charge that the proponents of the "Declaration" are guilty of incredibly poor reasoning. They would do well to be thankful for our armed services which have a dedicated breed of individual who is willing to do a dirty job in return for the likes of the "Declaration."

"Overwhelming Response."
To the Editor of Town Topics:

Dear Sir:

There is a certain prestige in having a Princeton address: the intellectual association; the social acceptability; the sophisticated exclusive community. All valid reasons, but how good it is to be truly proud of this community because of the unselfish generosity of its members, whether old Princetonians or new.

On Saturday, February 20, the University of Pennsylvania Hospital's bloodmobile arrived at All Saints' Chapel to accept donors for one of our patients about to undergo open heart surgery. A list of approximately 70 donors was needed.

The response was overwhelming. It's important to realize that though concerned about such things as zoning, schools, consolidation, traffic and taxes, time is taken for the essential thing of giving, in the true sense of the word.

The public should be aware of our deep gratitude to all those concerned, friends and complete strangers: the donors, those rejected, the stand-bys; those who helped with refreshments, typing, telephoning, setting up tables and chairs; the physician who donated his services; the ministers of All Saints and Trinity. The recipient is my husband and he, our sons, and I are so very grateful to all who gave of their time, effort, and blood.

We indeed feel it is a privilege to live in Princeton.

Liberals Too Complacent.
To the Editor of Town Topics:

Where are all the Princetonians liberals? Have the Scientists and Engineers for John-son-Humphrey gone back into which he is a new member, hiding? Is everyone satisfied with the present extremist organization that the defeat of Goldwater has made America safe for democracy?

In 1964 Americans were subjected to political hate literature. Many readers of TOWN TOPICS were disturbed by "Noee Dare Call It Treason" and "A Choice Not an Echo."

But these documents contained nothing new. The public files of the House Un-American Activities Committee had been spouting similar venom since 1938.

In addition to exposing so-called Communists, the HUAC may soon be attacking self-styled Anti - Communists. Georgia Representative Charles L. Weltner has suggested that the Committee, of

Cory S. Kammler

We were told that there were books written in hieroglyphics over hundreds of years before Columbus discovered it. Three "books" exist, and are deposited in Paris, Dresden, and Madrid. They were "written" in the Mayan empire in Central America more than a thousand years ago on tree bark that was beaten into a form of thick paper. Science has not fully deciphered their hieroglyphics, but they appear to tell of their lore, of best times of the year for sowing crops, for hunting, etc. It is an unsolved riddle why the entire Mayan society of banqt 2,000,000 seems to have disappeared along about 900 A. D. The ruins of many temples, buildings, and monuments remain as mute evidence that they were an advanced people in many ways. Combining the oldest with the newest is wonderful in business provided the "newest" refers to product bargains, and service, and "oldest" refers to solid, old fashioned scruples. READ 1000 TO 2000
WORDS A MINUTE
WITH FULL COMPREHENSION AND RETENTION

You can read 150-300 pages an hour using the ACCELERATED READING method. You'll learn to read DOWN the page comprehending at speeds of 1,000 to 2,000 words a minute. And retention is excellent.

This is NOT a skimming method; you definitely read every word.

You can apply the ACCELERATED READING method to textbooks and factual material as well as to literature and fiction. The author's style is not lost when you read at these speeds. In fact, your accuracy and enjoyment in reading will be increased.

Consider what this reading ability will enable you to accomplish — in your required reading and in the additional reading you want to do.

No machines, projectors, or apparatus are used in learning the ACCELERATED READING method. In this way the reader avoids developing any dependence upon external equipment in reading.

An evening class in ACCELERATED READING will be taught at the PRINCETON INN beginning in early MARCH.

Be our guest at a 30-minute public demonstration of the ACCELERATED READING method and see it applied by Princeton students who have recently completed the course.

"UPROOTED PINE." One of a series of "Landscape Experiences in Black and White" by Gregorio Prestopino, part of the current exhibition at Gallery 100.

ART
In Princeton

GREGORIO PRESTOPINO

Now at Gallery 100. The exhibition at Gallery 100 until March 7 is by no means the introduction of Gregorio Prestopino to Princeton. Living in nearby Roosevelt, exhibiting in New York and in world-wide shows, and teaching at the New School in New York City, he has been a real part of the American Art Scene for many years.

He has become known with increasing respect for his sensitous, pointed and communicative expression of life. His art comes from a keen observation, an innate sensitivity, and is happily based in solid training; the kind of training one got at the wonderful Old National Academy of Design School when it was on 109th Street and Amsterdam Avenue; when for $15 a year, young men and women were inspired to work their shirts off for some of the leading painters and teachers of the century.

Obviously it makes us nostalgic to think of the excitement and vitality which exuded from that environment which Jacob Gellar Smith described so well as a place where "students were always encouraged to experiment but never to disregard tradition and the salutory lessons that could be derived from conscientious study of the past." Here it was that Prestopino, at the age of 14, won a scholarship for study.

Growing up in New York's "Little Italy," Prestopino's eyes absorbed like blotting paper the impressions of his city; the face of poverty with its cruelties of cold, and fear and inhumanity; all the basic elements of tenement life. At the same time, he noticed the saving graces of humor, the unpredictable grandeurs and incidental beauties in contrast.

This environment has entered his work as subject matter for an artist who can penetrate circumstances and portray it simply with no fuss, no frills.

Painting. Though he started out painting in oils, Prestopino has turned more and more to drawing and serigraphy as more forceful means of his own expression.

The exhibits in these latter categories generally hold most interest in his show at Gallery 100. For the most part, the paintings have a mural connotation with a labored interplay of figures and background. An exception - and intriguing to us - is "Boy in the Field," which is technically lively, matched by vigorous color and the poignance of a little boy's plight.

Drawings. Happier in two than three dimensions, Prestopino finds a stark contrast of black and white powerful for his drawings. Here he relies on the skillful control of his pen, a feeling for balance, both emotionally and spatially, and an absence of any unnecessary detail.

An effective example is his "Uprooted Pine," simplicity itself.

Serigraphs. Particularly he likes the versatile medium of serigraphy for his original prints. Though serigraphs can be handled in numerous ways, those shown at this time are combinations of the black and white stencil print, hand-finished in water-color painting.

The color which jumps to mind as Prestopino's is strong, but his range turns out to be much broader. For the first time we saw subtle, almost pastel color in his "Mother and Child," where soft tones seem to enhance the touching gesture of the figures. In turn, it is his stress of gesture, almost a distortion of form, and notably of head on body that is so uniquely his and carries the impact of his message.

Entirely different and purely decorative is "Seed." Stencilled in black and white, then brushed with the brown of dried Queen Anne's Lace and the deep late red of the Choke Cherry, this serigraph is a charming thing.

East Side. Most familiar are Prestopino's simple and direct commentaries on city life: "The Peddlar" with his wares, "L'Italiano," surrounded by the prosciutto and provolone. The hands and faces of these characters tell the stories of their lives.

In "Brass Bed," there is so little indicated, so much understood. And then there is "The City." The more you look into this picture, the more you identify with the anonymous man who, in the murky shadows of the late El, moves as a ghost of the multitude.

With Prestopino's work, one gets the idea. In fact, you can't get away from it. It's a lively experience which follows you right out the door of Gallery 100.

Also worth a special trip to 100 Nassau Street is the new piece of sculpture by Victor Kiu. This artist's work has been shown frequently at Gallery 100 but "Reconaissance" is definitely a major achievement. From granite he has made a form which is no longer earth-bound. Bird or aircraft, whatever it be, it is planing off in sheer flight.

COOK WORK ACCEPTED

For Academy Exhibit. Peter Cook of Kingston will display his "Portrait of John Fellinbee" in the 140th annual exhibition of the National Academy of Design beginning Thursday at the Academy's galleries on 1083 Fifth Avenue, New York City. The exhibit will conclude on March 21.

Mr. Cook's work was one of 99 selected from 1,060 oil paintings submitted by non-members of the academy. A jury composed of members of the organization made the selection.

The membership consists of academicians and associates in the fields of painting, architecture, sculpture and the graphic arts. The New York exhibit will include 387 works by artists from 31 states.

CRITIC TO SPEAK

At Jewish Center. Dr. Alfred Werner, an art critic, will deliver a lecture on art and aaehitecture at the Princeton Jewish Center Sunday at 8:15. His topic is "Art and the Jew."

Dr. Werner has taught at City College of New York and has lectured at the Museum of Modern Art. He is a contributing editor of Arts magazine

When no one can get to work . . . an amazing number of telephone operators do.

They'll walk for miles when nothing on wheels can move.

Why do they do it?

Because they know they're needed. They know the whole community is depending on them for telephone service. Especially in times of emergency.

At the phone company, we call their attitude the "spirit of service." Maybe it sounds old-fashioned. But it's real. And we're proud of it. Just as we're proud of all the operators who help make your telephone service something that you can always rely on.

Cornell Basketball Game on Closed-Circuit TV

The first closed-circuit television of a Princeton athletic contest will be offered the public Saturday night when the Tigers' basketball team meets Cornell in Dillon Gymnasium at 8 o'clock.

Because of the extremely heavy demand for tickets, The Daily Princetonian is sponsoring two telecasts—one in Dillon Pool, the other in Alexander Hall. All 800 seats for the stands above the pool were sold last week shortly after the plan had been announced, but several hundred are still available for Alexander Hall.

They may be purchased at Hinkson's, 82 Nassau Street, or from 1 to 5 p.m. at The Princetonian office on the second floor of the University Store, 36 University Place. They are priced at $2.

A screen measuring 14 by 10½ feet will be provided in each of the locations, Terry Eakin, national advertising manager of the Princetonian, who arranged the telecast, said that only 800 tickets—350 under capacity—will be sold in Alexander Hall to insure satisfactory viewing conditions.

The programming will be handled by Television Production Engineering Corp., of Philadelphia, which specializes in events of this nature. There is a possibility that next Wednesday's Penn-Princeton game will also be televised under similar conditions if outcome of the Ivy League race depends upon it. Such announcement would be withheld until after Saturday night's game with Cornell.

TIGERS CAN TAKE ALL

By Winning Three at Home. For the third year in a row, a Princeton basketball team which has trailed during the major portion of the Ivy League race has the opportunity of coming from behind to win the championship. This time, the odds are in its favor, because it can take the title without resorting to a playoff by the presumably simple expedient of ringing up victories on its home court.

Two winters ago, the Tigers trailed Yale most of the way, finally earning a first-place tie when they defeated Cornell and Columbia on the last weekend of the season. Four days later in the playoff, they whipped the Elis, 65 to 53, in the Fordham gymnasium.

Last, winter, losses on the road to Columbia and Harvard created season-long problems for Princeton, and the night the Tigers played Penn at the Palestra in the last regularly-scheduled game of the year, they had to win to avoid a triple tie with the Quakers and Yale. They did—76 to 66. Coach Bill van Breda Kolff's team goes into its last three games in better shape statistically than it had any right to expect. One of the most incredible upsets that have dotted Ivy action over the years came the Tigers' way when Yale, no better than 6-11 on the season, ended Cornell's 15-game winning streak with a 71-69 upset at Ithaca.

ADDED ASSET: Although not a starting member of the Tiger basketball team, sophomore Ed Hummer contributed to the victories over Dartmouth and Harvard with 23 points.

Three-way Tie Possible. So Cornell departs for its rough assignment of playing Penn and Princeton away from home all even with the Tigers in the lost column. The Ithacans had seemingly survived all likelihood of an unexpected defeat when they won three road games in four days, but Yale led almost all the way to continue the mastery it has held over the Ithacans in recent years. The triumph was the Bulldogs' seventh over Cornell in their last eight meetings.

There is, of course, a variety of combinations involving the final games among the three leading teams which could precipitate a two-way or even a three-way deadlock. The latter will occur if: Penn wins its last three while Cornell drops both its contests and the Tigers defeat Cornell while being upset by Columbia and Penn. The latter sequence is all but unbelievable, yet it remains at least a mathematical possibility.

Columbia, the first of the Tigers' weekend foes, lacks both depth and height but has enough sharpshooting ability to make trouble for a team that suddenly goes cold under pressure. Stan Feisinger and Neil Farber, a pair of good backcourt marksmen, are averaging around 20 points apiece in league play.

Mike Griffin, hardly a big man at 6-4, trails only Bill Bradley in rebounds. Art Klink, 6-5, 5-8 Ken Benoit and 6-0 Ken McCulloch are the others who will see primary action for the Lions in New York on January 15, it was 78-60, Princeton.

Cornell Could Win Here. It has been more than two years—17 Ivy games ago—since Princeton last lost to an Ivy opponents in Dillon Gym. The Tigers dropped a one-point (62-61) decision to Yale that night, January 10, 1963.

Despite its upset at the hands of the Elis on its own court, the Red has a major degree of ability—most of it on offense. It is averaging 85 points in Ivy League action, normally puts four players in double figures in a given game and has occasionally hit better than 60% of its field goal attempts.

The Ithacans' tallest starter is 6-7 Steve Cram, who is averaging 15 points a game. Highest scorer is 6-2 Bob DeLuca, who hits better than 16 per game. The other three starters are 5-10 Dave Bliss, 6-5 Garry Munson and 6-2 Bob Berube.

Cornell has good bench depth, too—it was sophomore Blaine Alston who beat Princeton at Ithaca last month with a jumper in the final three seconds. Jim Magliocean, 6-6, and Marv Van Leeeuwn, 6-5, are others whom Coach Sam MacNeil shuttles back and forth.

Penn Was Upset Too. Somewhat overlooked in the surprise created by Yale's victory over Cornell was the fact that Harvard upset Penn at Cambridge Friday night, 76 to 67. The presumably capable Quakers then had all sorts of trouble coming from behind to defeat last-place Dartmouth at Hanover, 74 to 70.

Back on its own court in Philadelphia, however, Penn will make constant trouble for Cornell. The Red and Blue will be no pushover for Princeton, either, with Jeff Neuman and Stan Pawlak, a pair of all-Ivy choices in their sophomore year, and 6-8 John Hellings the chief point-makers. As matters stand now, if Cornell wins at the Palestra Friday night, Princeton will have to defeat Penn here next Wednesday to avoid a playoff with the Ithacans, even if it defeats them in Dillon Gym Saturday.

LET'S WATCH BRADLEY

Sellout at Hanover. Basketball at Dartmouth is in the depths of a 3-18 season but when Bill Bradley led Princeton onto the floor, all the reserved seats had been gone for a week. No one expected a contest and there was none to see, but Bradley's ability had again created lines at the ticket windows.

Actually, he played less than 20 minutes in the first half and did not even take the floor for the tapoff after the intermission, although he returned to the game with some 15 minutes to go. His passing was as picturesque as always; his point total was a mere 18—low for the current season.

The Tigers had a 38-17 halftime lead, and coasted the rest of the way. When Bradley went out for good, so did many a spectator; those who remained saw Keo Shank give something of a repeat performance of his heroics against the Indians in Dillon Gym a week earlier. His four field goals and lone free throw brought loud cheers from the Dartmouth stands, and when Van Breda Kolff took him out, the chant "We want Shank" reverberated through the gymnasium as if it were his home court.

The Tigers took home an 83-57 victory.

Close First Half. Harvard's hopes of upsetting Princeton, as it had a year ago, lasted through the first half, which saw the Crimson trail only by 30 to 29. Thereafter, however, the Tigers broke the contest open, leading by as much as 19 before settling for an 83-72 decision.

Van Breda Kolff moved Bradley into the back court to achieve the breakthrough, pairing him with Gary Walters and using Ed Hummer, Bobby Brown and Bob Harlow up front. The combination proved solid, particularly with Hummer playing the best all-around game of his brief career at Princeton.

The 6-6 sophomore grabbed nine rebounds, threw in 15 points—including 9 out of 10 from the foul line — and played a good game defensively. He was one of four players in double figures against the Crimson; Bradley had 24, Harlow 16 and Walters 10.

As had been expected all along, the Ivy race now comes down to the final week with Cornell, Penn and Princeton all possible victors. The others must, however, win on the road; the Tigers can end it all by winning at home. Any team good enough to knock them off in Dillon Gym will be fully deserving of the Ivy title.

SEASON NEARS END

For Tiger Hockey Team. Games Friday and Saturday at St. Lawrence and Tuesday against Harvard will conclude the Princeton hockey team's home schedule for the current season. The following Saturday, March 6, the skaters will head for Brown to play the league-leading Bruins in the final contest of the winter.

The Tiger sextet was eager at mid-week for its return game with Yale, scheduled for Wednesday night in Baker Rink. The Orange and Black was hopeful of evening the score with the Elis, despite a 4-1 setback at New Haven Saturday.

The go-round at New Haven was a goal-al of a donnybrook with two Princetonians and one Eli tagged with match penalties and two others drawing major sentences of five minutes each. Most of the time of the bad behavior followed a fight which resulted in the dismissal from the game of Princeton's Gordon Gladman and Yale's Dan Hogan. The other Princetonian to get the heave-ho was forward Mike Peterman.

Gladman scored the lone Tiger goal, and the visitors were trailing by no more than 2 to 1 when the fight broke out. The sparsity of players on ice—at the start of the third period, each team had only four men in action—worked better for Yale than Princeton and the Elis added another pair of goals in the final round.

Varsity action on Wednesday was preceded by a game between the two freshman teams. The Tigers' strong contingent won at New Haven, 3 to 0, and have hopes of finishing the season with one of the top records ever compiled by a first-year team here.

These Penn Mutual underwriters have earned positions in the top rank of their profession. They are being honored in the February 27 issue of The Saturday Evening Post.

A UNIQUE DEPTH of understanding is the key to true success for any life insurance underwriter. He must be expert and imaginative in the application of all the many forms of life and health insurance. He must be able to understand the needs of those who look to him for advice, and able to design their insurance programs to fit those needs.

The Penn Mutual "Top Club" members shown here have demonstrated that depth of understanding to a remarkable degree. Each of them has helped his clients to create more than $1,000,000 in additional security and peace of mind during the past year.

This combination of skill and understanding is of great value to you, your family and your business as you build for your future security. You will find that your Penn Mutual underwriter has demonstrated these qualities—and they are available to you.

PHS TO MEET RAHWAY

Tuesday at Woodbridge. Although he has not yet received official notice from the NJSIAA committee, PHS athletic director Joe Jingoli reported that Princeton High will oppose Rahway Tuesday at Woodbridge in the first round of the New Jersey State Interscholastic Athletic Association tournament. The winner will meet the victor of the first round clash between Westfield and Cranford.

Coach Tony Borzok's Little Tigers will end their regular season's competition on Friday evening at 8 when they play host to Franklin. It will be an important game. For the home team it offers not only a chance to atone for a 10-point setback administered by Franklin in December but a chance to end with a season's average of at least .500.

No matter how it finishes, PHS can point to its second meeting with Hamilton, its 18-point defeat notwithstanding, as one of its finer performances. For two periods—the second and third—it matched highly-rated Hamilton, which had won its last nine in a row, point for point. Both scored 33. In the final period, the visiting Hornets outscored the Little Tigers by a scant three.

16 In A Row. The one

Exemplifying this determination for Princeton, more than any other, perhaps, was Dave Van Ness. Overlooked because he is not a prolific scorer, Van Ness fought courageously underneath for rebounds and tap-ins. He played most of the game in the key, did a fine job and scored seven points.

Top scorer for PHS was Leitch with 21, six of them the result of spectacular steals, one from Mr. Bell himself. Peter Heiberger played his usual steady game, adding 16 points, half of them coming in the second period.

Leitch played so resolutely that he almost had to retire in the fourth period from exhaustion. He connected for 13 points. Starting slowly he had two in the first half, he rammed in three jumpers in a row from the side.

Roger Madden added three points to complete the scoring for PHS. Until Van Ness fouled out in the final minutes of play, Borzok did not make a single substitution. Both teams were accurate from the foul line. Hamilton converted 18 of 22 attempts while PHS was 16 for 22.

HUN LOSES FINALE

Enters Waiting Period. Although the Hun School basketball team ended its season last Wednesday, it must wait until next Friday before it finds out if it has backed into the championship of the Penn-Jersey League, has lost it or has been forced into a playoff.

Commenting on the situation, Hun coach Rob Simpson said, "Our winter banquet will be held on March 6 and we won't know until the day before whether we have anything to celebrate or not." The speaker for the school's annual father and son winter sports banquet will be Joe Garagiola, former major league catcher with the St. Louis Cardinals and later baseball announcer who has been named as the new "voice" of the New York Yankees.

Hun was forced to sweat it out when the hammer lock it had on the league title last week slipped off in the process of a 65-60 loss to Moorestown last Wednesday in its finale. As a consequence, Hun's final position in the league will depend on what Bryn Athyn (7-2) and George School (6-2)—the two remaining contenders—do. Hun finished with a 9-3 log.

Because Bryn Athyn and George School still must play each other twice, the possibilities are sufficient to make any

BY JOHN F. BERNARD

Maybe you have your own idea of the prettiest face in the world, but the Caricaturists Society decided the face should be made up of. The eyes of Polly Bergen, the nose of Tuesday Weld, the lips of Dorothy Lamour, the chin of Sandra Dee, the hair of Kim Novak, the forehead of Elizabeth Taylor, the cheeks of Suzy Parker, and the intermaxillary (how that?) cleft of Brigitte Bardot.

He who fancies he has perfect insurance coverages is much like one who thinks he has a perfect face. There are always a few flaws . . . sometimes serious ones. A flaw in insurance can be exceedingly costly. Let STURHANN, DICKENSON & BERNARD, 15 Chambers Street, give you sale counseling on your insurance coverages. Call 921-6880 for appointment. oddmaker drool. However, after all the "if" and "but" situations have been exhausted, it appears most likely that the outcome will be resolved one of two ways. Either Hun will back into the title as the contenders eliminate each other or it will be forced into a playoff with Bryn Athyn.

The advantage still lies with Hun, said Simpson, "I'm pretty disappointed that we didn't win our last game and end it right there, but I'd rather be us and waiting than in the position of having to beat Bryn Athyn twice. It could be better but it could be a lot worse."

The culprit in this, as far as Hun is concerned, is Moorestown's George Nelson. A 6-6 center, who was sidelined with an ankle injury the first time Hun opposed Moorestown—a contest won by Hun, Nelson scored a game-high 27 points against the Red and Black. "He dominated the back boards and just too big for us," said Simpson.

Turning in outstanding performances for Hun were Scott Page, 20 points; Mike Miller, 18; and Scott Anderson, 10. Never ahead, visiting Hun nevertheless entered the final period only three points behind.

Meanwhile, Hun will oppose Newark Academy Saturday at Peddie in the opening round of the Group 3 Prep School tournament. Newark is the defending champion. If Hun wins it will play the winner among Delbarton, Croydon Hall, Admiral Farragut for the crown Wednesday at the Lawrenceville School gymnasium.

BOWLING NOTES

Papp's Holds Lead. Bud Cavanaugh bowled a 637 series as Papp's Pro Shop held a 2½-point lead in the Three-Man Classic League. Papp's has 40 points with the Princeton Recreation Center in second place a point ahead of Turney Motors.

Cavanaugh had individual games of 183, 225 and 229. Bill Cavanaugh bowled a 206 and other outstanding scores included Ed Hughes, 218; Joe Baldino, 210; Bill Dumble, 202, and Val Ranallo, 200.

In the Nassau League, Bear Brook and Nassau Liquor were tied with 28 points apiece for the league lead. The Princeton Elks trailed by two and the Reformers and Nassau Delicatessen were tied for fourth with 22 apiece.

DeWitt Boice led the league's bowlers with a 233 contest. He was followed by Frank Cawley, 218; Ed Lemore and Bob Seulerati, 212 apiece; Pros Aeschbacher, 204; Pete Homan, 203; Dick Harris, 202.

Kingston, with 22 points, led the Tri-County Firemen's League by two over Mercer and Dutch Neck. Princeton Number 1, Lawrenceville and Hook and Ladder "L" were tied for fourth with 16 points each.

John Fitzpatrick, with a 226 game, edged Carmen Pasicaro by three pins for individual scoring honors. Other 200-plus bowlers: Jack Nicholsen, 215; Walt Coan, 206; Elmer Wilson, 205; Mount and Gib Ireland, 203 each; Ken Luck and Jack Rhubart, 202 each.

In "B" League action Pete and Mike's retained a six-point lead, 30-24, over Smith Bindery and Balesteri's. Key Shop was in fourth place with 22 points.

Ed Doyton was the top scorer with a 216 game. Other leaders included Ed Hoffman, 210; Pete Homan, 207; Val Ranallo and Bill Dumble, 201 apiece; and Bill Murphy, 200.

Smith Bindery, with 19 points, held a three-point edge in the Business Women's League over Jefferson Plumbing with four teams tied for third. Helen Tamasi bowled games of 229 and 184. Marie Pipero, 172; and Mella Cruser and Mary Meeker, 171 each.

The Tigers and Sharks were tied for first place in the YMCA Blue Angels League for 15-year-old boys with four points each. Craig Donaldson bowled a 182. Tom Wood and Curt Mitchell each had games of 157 and Chris Wright bowled a 149.

Reddy automatically keeps our system tied together

Everyone knows that violent storms and lightning can sometimes play havoc with electrical facilities. If a pole or a circuit is damaged, your entire neighborhood may go without power. However, to combat such power failures, Public Service has been rebuilding its lines to improve resistance to storms. As one example, automatic switches which isolate trouble are being installed throughout our service area. If necessary, they switch to alternate sources of power.

Just as Reddy ties our wires together, these switches automatically permit you to continue to get power during storm conditions. The use of storm-proof construction is another way Public Service makes certain you have dependable electric service.

Bradley on Radio and TV

Two programs recording the life and times of Bill Bradley are scheduled for presentation on the airwaves early next month.

Tuesday night at 7:30, WHWH Princeton and WTOA-FM Trenton will broadcast a half-hour taped interview with the Tigers' All-American. In response to questions by WHWH president Herb Hobler, Bradley will cover such topics as his reasons for enrolling at Princeton, the most exciting games in which he has played, his plans after study at Oxford and his views on professional basketball.

A week later, Tuesday, March 9 at 7 p.m., Bradley will appear on a 30-minute telecast over NBC Channel 3, Philadelphia. The program will portray his life on campus and show game action during his basketball career.

PHS TOPPED, 73-54

By Asbury Park. Princeton High's last chance to assure itself of a winning basketball season fell by the wayside Tuesday night when visiting Asbury Park whacked the Little Tigers, 73 to 54. The outcome dropped the losers' record to 10-11.

After the Blue and White had taken a 16-12 first-quarter lead, the Bishops retaliated with a 20-point attack in the second period, while holding the home team to nine. It was a deficit PHS was never able to balance.

Five players accounted for all of the Little Tigers scoring. Captain Pete Heiberger's 22-point total was more than double that of any teammate. Colin Leitch scored 10, followed by Wilbur Hines, 9, Dave Van Ness, 7 and Roger Madden, 6.

Asbury Park's Dave Riley led all performers with a 33-point output. The victory was Asbury's second over the Little Tigers this year who now have one last chance to end their campaign with a .500 mark.

MISS FINE'S IS FINE

In English. The English department of Miss Fine's School has been named as one of the outstanding departments in the country by the University of Illinois, which is engaged in a nation-wide study of high school English programs.

Miss Fine's is one of 118 schools out of 2,600 chosen for detailed study, and two members of the Illinois research program will visit Miss Fine's on Monday to confer with teachers, students and staff.

Criteria used by Illinois were the success of graduates in college English, the number of Merit Award winners, the number of National Council of Teachers of English Achievement Awards and the reputation of the department in nearby colleges.

Mrs. Anne B. Shepherd, head of the English department at Miss Fine's, Mrs. Blackwell Smith and Mrs. Remington Rose will be the teachers visited by the Illinois team.

PLANS ANNOUNCED

For Byrd Fund Dinner. The Elizabeth Taylor Byrd Fund will hold its third annual dinner and dance at the Nassau Inn on Saturday, March 6. Herbert B. Evans, chairman of the Housing and Redevelopment Board of New York City, will be the guest speaker.

Mrs. Helen Taylor is the chairman of the program. Assisting her will be James Ward, Mrs. James Briscoe, co-chairmen; Mrs. Floyd Campbell, secretary; Mrs. Robert Wright, treasurer; Robert Ellis, educational chairman; Virginia Euell, scholarship chairman; Mrs. Alexander Hoagland, Mrs. John Brown, Mrs. Raymond Male and Frederick M. Porter Jr.

"VISIT TO RUSSIA"

Prof. Billington's Topic. James H. Billington, professor of history at Princeton University, will discuss his recent visit to Russia at 5 p.m. Tuesday in Room 421, Pine Administration Building.

The public is invited to attend. The Princeton Russian Club is sponsor.

LUNCHEON SET

By Chief Daughters. A business luncheon will be held at 2:30 this Friday by the Past Chief and Chief Daughters Association of the Daughters of Scotia at 151½ Witherspoon Street.

Thistle Lodge will meet at 8 p.m. Friday. Chief Daughter Loretta De Witt will preside at the initiation of three new members.

RETIRES TO MEET

In Trenton. The regular monthly meeting of the Trenton Chapter of the American Association of Retired Persons will be held from 1 to 4 Wednesday, March 3, in the Trenton War Memorial Building, Stacy Park.

The organization, which includes Princeton area members, plans to hold its meetings on the first Wednesday of the month at the Memorial Building.

FALLOUT IS TOPIC

Of Civil Defense Talks. Three demonstration lectures will be presented by the West Windsor Civil Defense Council to acquaint the public with the properties of radioactive fallout from nuclear weapons.

The two-hour meetings will be held at 8 p.m. on three successive Thursdays, February 25, March 4 and 11, on the second floor of Town Hall in Dutch Neck. All interested people are invited to attend. Emphasis will be placed on emergency procedures and how to read and interpret radiation level instruments.

CORRECTION

In last week's TOWN TOPICS it was incorrectly stated that Mrs. Allan Stephens had been president of the Princeton Small Animal Rescue League since its foundings. The first president was Mrs. P. Mackay Sturges, who served from 1951 to 1953.

MUSIC
In Princeton

A RARE OPPORTUNITY

Artur Rubinstein is to be heard Tuesday night was an extra-special event for Princetan concert-goers. It was a night that one did not have to travel to New York to hear Artur Rubinstein.

This most famous of keyboard artists came here instead and delivered a recital of Piano Literature from the Romantic Era before 3,000 mesmerized spectators at the Dillon Gymnasium. The concert was sponsored by McCarter Theater.

Mr. Rubinstein opened the program with no less than the "Grand Sonata No. 3 in B Flat Major" by Franz Schubert. This is a grand work indeed, lasting more than 35 minutes, but well worth the listener's endurance.

It is Schubert's supreme piano masterpiece. In the performance of this four-movement work, Mr. Rubinstein appeared to emphasize the lyrical qualities rather than the dramatic intensity of the music, yet the composition lost none of its nobility or grandeur.

Following the Schubert, the artist performed three works by Brahms: the "Rhapsody in G Minor," Op. 79; the Capriccio in B Minor, Op 76, and the Rhapsody in E Flat Major, Op. 119. Mr. Rubinstein's playing of these works, the first two especially, left nothing to be desired.

Power was there when called for and the lilt of the Viennese "gemuthlichkeit" was aptly rendered in the lovely Capriccio. These pieces completed the first half of the concert.

After intermission, Mr. Rubinstein returned to play the "Valses nobles et sentimentales" by Ravel, and five works by Chopin; the "Ballade in G Minor, Op. 23," the Etudes in E Minor and C Sharp Minor, the Nocturne in F Sharp Minor and the Polonaise in A Flat Major, OP. 53. With the exception of the Chopin Ballade, the music of the second half was on a substantially lower level than the preceding.

Nevertheless, Mr. Rubinstein demonstrated his great artistry and brilliant technique in the performances of these compositions. He has played them often and extremely well.

As I listened to the delicacy of his tone, the brilliance of the rhythmic thrust that he gives to each bravura passage, I was awed more by this man's ability to play a simple musical line and bring out its pure unpretentious quality. This was as true with the Schubert and Ravel as with the Brahms and Chopin.

Artur Rubinstein

Brahms as it was with the Ravel and the Chopin.

No matter how fast the particular passage, one heard all the music, not just the notes. A great musician never sacrifices the line for the notes and if the artist erred occasionally, the musical phrase and structure did not falter.

It is interesting to reflect for a moment on hearing Rubinstein play Chopin. Not all of his choices regarding that composer can be considered "lop-drawer" Chopin.

If one considers the Polonaise and the two Etudes chosen for this particular concert, one has to admit that tastes have changed considerably since the generation of 30 years ago revveled in the performance of these works. Still the 76-year old wizard brings these pieces off with a flourish, but I would much rather hear Rubinstein return to some of the great works that he introduced at the beginning of his magnificent career; music that was then just born.

It may seem strange and even unbelievable to the multitudes who have heard this great man play Chopin and Brahms that early in his career he performed Schonberg, Bartok Hindemith and Prokofiev. Perhaps one should be thankful for small favors. After all, we didn't have to drive very far to hear one of the greatest pianists of all time.

—Arno Safran

FORRESTER TO SING

Contralto Coming. The great Canadian contralto, Maureen Forrester ,will sing in McCarter Monday at 8:30 as part of Princetan University Concerts, Series II. Tickets are on sale at the McCarter box office.

One of the most widely admired singers now before the public, Miss Forrester attained international stature at an early age, and became almost a living legend before she was 30.

The National Film Board of Canada has prepared a movie of her life, filmed partly on location at the Casals Festival, Puerto Rico, where Miss Forrester appeared as guest soloist.

For her Princeton program, she has chosen four early German sacred songs, and works by Schubert, Loewe, Samuel Barber, Jean Coulthard and Manuel de Falla.

CHAMBER GROUP TO PLAY

In Debut. A musical rarity—the premiere performance of a work by Johann Sebastian Bach —will be featured in the debut concert of the Princetan Pro Musica Chamber Orchestra Sunday at 8 in Alexander Hall.

The Bach work is his violin concerto in D minor. The original violin concerto has been lost, and is known primarily through Bach's transcription of the material into the piano concerto in D minor.

Philip Blackmarr, soloist in the performance, and Thomas Pniewski, conductor of the chamber group have worked with members of the university's music department to reconstruct the lost concerto from the several versions of the piano concerto and vintage cantata movements that contain the same material.

In addition to the Bach, the Princeton Pro Musica players will perform a Telemann double concerto for trumpets, a Bach march for three solo trumpets and strings, and selections by a brass ensemble composed of two trumpets, French horn and trombone.

GOSPEL CHOIR TO SING

In Baptist Church Benefit. The nationally-known Back Home Choir of Newark will appear for a two-hour gospel program Sunday, March 24, at 4 at the Princeton High School auditorium. The choir is being sponsored by the young adult choir of the First Baptist Church, Princeton, as a benefit concert which will begin its fund raising building fund drive by the church.

Tickets to the choir concert may be reserved by calling Mrs. Zelma Tatum, ticket chairman, at 924-2909 from 7 to 9 p.m. They are also available at the church office or at the Passage, 30 Green Street, and at the University Store. Prices range from $1.50 to $3.

CERTIFICATION SUBJECT

Of School for Music Meeting. How to become a certified teacher will be the subject of a short meeting to be held next Thursday, March 4, at 10 a.m. in the Recital Hall, New School for Music Study, 353 Nassau Street. The meeting will end at noon.

The certification plan adopted by the New Jersey Music Teachers' Association is similar to the master plan for certification issued by the Music Teachers National Association. It was adopted by the NJMTA upon the urging of many who felt more definite standards were needed in the music teaching profession.

There is no obligation for those who attend to become certified. Teachers are unable to attend may obtain more information by writing Joseph Prendergast, Certification Chairman, 10 Morris Street, Merchantville, N. J.

His lecture will be illustrated. A donation of $1.25 is requested for admission.

The lecture is part of a spring series sponsored by the Adult Education Committee of the Jewish Center. The following Sunday, Percival Goodman will discuss "Synagogue Architecture."

CHINESE ART ON VIEW

In Wilcox Hall. A collection of modern Chinese paintings has been placed on display in Wilcox Hall by the Woodrow Wilson Society. The exhibition is open to the public from 10 to 10 daily and will run through March 15.

Five painters are represented in the display including three members of the "Fifth Moon Group," an influential organization founded by Liu Kuo-Sung. The five are residents of Tiwan in the Republic of China.

News Of The CHURCHES

"ALWAYS UP FRONT"

At Witherspoon. Near the altar of 125-year-old Witherspoon Presbyterian Church is a special groove, not too discernible, worn by generations of organists—all members of the same family.

Mrs. Sara Harris, organist for the past 25 years, said at Witherspoon the other day, "When we were checking the church history for the 100th anniversary in 1940, we found that every organist was connected with our family!"

Her mother, the late Mrs. Margaret J. Blackwell, held the post for 50 years, and "she couldn't remember a time when a Van Zandt wasn't playing the organ." The chain may break when she leaves, Mrs. Harris fears, "although I have a niece who shows interest. . ."

On The Bench. A smiling, sweet-voiced woman, who teaches mathematics and science to Witherspoon School sixth graders, Mrs. Harris doesn't know much about life in the pews. Her mother placed her two tiny daughters at either side of her on the organ bench every Sunday. "We were too small even to sing!"

She taught Mrs. Harris and her sister, now Mrs. Martha Yeager, to play the piano and organ when they were very young. They played the piano at Sunday School, sang in the choir, and on their mother's rare absences, substituted for her at the organ. "The way it turned out," Mrs. Harris says, "we were always up front."

Times Change. Mrs. Harris represents a kind of continuity that is fading from the Princeton scene. "I can say something that few Princetonians can say . . . I live right across from Princeton Hospital. I was born right there, and I have never lived anywhere else in my life.

"I have watched that hospital grow from a little farmhouse into a wonderful place. I've watched Princeton grow from a little town. Now it is almost a city."

Her present classroom at the Witherspoon School was her first grade room as a child. "It was a segregated school then," she remarked, "although the high school was not segregated." Holder of a master's degree and a teacher in the Borough schools since 1937, she was a part of the change-over to integrated schools and is pleased with the results. "But I can't see how the Princeton Plan would work in a big city."

With retirement not too far off, she is looking forward to the new John Witherspoon School on Walnut Lane. "I'd like to teach there for at least four or five years."

"Other Things." For all her full life with church services and school, Mrs. Harris has found time for what she calls "other things." She was a member of the Red Cross board of directors for four terms and serves on the faculty of the summer training center. She is a member of the teachers' sorority, Phi Delta Kappa, which helps send a girl to college every year.

Her husband, Morgan Harris, is a former Witherspoon trustee, now serving as an elder, treasurer of session funds and as president of the Witherspoon Credit Union. He is also a convenor in the current inter-denominational Ephesians Study.

The Hymns. As she spoke of her own life, Mrs. Harris's fingers sounded soft chords on the church organ. "Our congregation likes to sing," she said, "and does very well. Of course we miss the Rev. B. J. Anderson's boom! We miss him very much.

"I just love the music of the church. I like hymns that move quickly. . . I don't like to drag hymns. We do a lot of Bach in our choir, and Handel."

Asked her favorite, she responded, "There are so many! 'Abide With Me' was mother's favorite hymn, and I like it, too. Another is 'Joyful, Joyful, We Adore Thee' from one of Beethoven's symphonies."

The organ responded to her knowing fingers as she played the hymn. "Isn't it lovely," she said over her shoulder.

Others have agreed. The hymn, with words by a now-deceased Princentonian, writer-poet Henry Van Dyke, is to be found in the songbooks of several denominations.

I REMEMBER THE OLD PIPE ORGAN at Witherspoon," says Mrs. Sara Harris, church organist for the past 25 years. 'Motbec was organist then, and she had to have boys to pump for her. Sometimes they'd forget. . !" (Story this page.)

TO HOLD DAY OF PRAYER

For World Peace. The United Church Women of Princeton will observe "World Day of Prayer" at three services on Friday, March 5, at St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church. Mrs. A. Roland Malo is in charge of arrangements.

Meditations at 10 a.m., 2 p.m. and 8 p.m. will be presented by Mrs. T. Roba Webb, UCW president; Mrs. Orion C. Hopper and Mrs. Kenneth S. Danenbauer.

The theme, "What Doth the Lord Require," and the service are the work of Mrs. Jesse J. McNeil now of Pasadena, Calif., first Negro recipient of the Layman of the Year citation from the Detroit Council of Churches.

Assisting at the 10 a.m. service are Mrs. Lefferts Loetscher, Mrs. Caspar Pennock, Mrs. David Taylor, Mrs. Ernest Hogan, Mrs. Minot Morgan Sr., Mrs. Gertrude Buggs and Mrs. B. Woodhill Davis.

Serving at 2 p.m.: Mrs. William L. Tucker, Mrs. Joseph Thomas, Mrs. Collie Herron, Mrs. Harry Hill, Mrs. John Larson and Mrs. Henry Dyer.

At 8 p.m., assistants will be Mrs. H. Theodore Sorg, Mrs. E. Wayne Birch, Mrs. Ernestine H. Gaskins, Mrs. Charles T. Fritsch, Mrs. Henry Garner and Mrs. Robert Wright.

The soloists will be Mrs. Albert D. Tyson and Miss Clarice Pretlow.

Participating churches include. Calvary Baptist, First Baptist, Trinity Episcopal, All Saints' Chapel, Princeton Methodist, Mt. Pisgah AME, Society of Friends, First, St. Andrew's and Witherspoon Presbyterian, and Kingston and Hillsborough Presbyterian Churches.

The World Day of Prayer, begun 79 years ago, is being observed in 125 nations on six continents on the first Friday of Lent.

YOUTH SERVICES SET

At Three Churches. Special youth services will be held this Sunday at Calvary Baptist and St. Andrew's (formerly Second) Presbyterian Churches. Boy Scout Sunday will be observed at First Presbyterian Church.

"Christian Youth Speak Out" is the topic of meditations at the 9:30 and 11 a.m. services at St. Andrew's. Speakers and their subjects are: Susan Hartley, "The Church and High School;" Gilbert Bliss, "The Church takes a Look at the School;" and Robert Anderson, "The High School Takes a Look at the Church."

James Rowan Jr. will lead the worship; Sarah Hunter will give the intercessory prayer. The scripture will be read by Eric Perkins at the 9:30 service, and by A. C. Reeves Hicks, YMCA president, at 11.

Calvary Baptist. "Songs From a Small Planet" will be the basis of meditations by Elizabeth Maxwell, Ronald Smith and Vincent Staats Jr. at Calvary Baptist Church.

Assisting at the service will be Betty Ceraso, Susan and Willard Cruser, Mark Dannenhauer, Faneen and Robin Murray, Donald Quick and Douglas Westover.

Scout Sunday. Four Eagle Scouts, William Lawder Jr., Craig Richmond, Arthur Buckland and Gus Zimmerman, will assist at the 9:30 and 11 a.m. services at First Church. The Rev. John B. Paterson will give the sermon, "What Are You Saying?"

KENYAN TO SPEAK

At Kingston Church. Charles Wamatu of Kenya will be the guest speaker this Sunday at the family fellowship supper at Kingston Presbyterian Church. "New Nations Challenge Christianity" is the theme.

Mr. Wamatu, 31, is a graduate of Kagumo Teacher Training College and St. Paul's Theological College in Kenya. He is presently engaged in special studies at Princeton Theological Seminary.

AFRICAN VISIT SET

By Westerly Road Pastor. The Rev. Edward H. Morgan of Westerly Road Church leaves Tuesday to attend an international conference of the North Africa Mission Board in Tangiers, Morocco.

He is one of three delegates of the North American Council which shares with the British and Scottish Councils support of the Mission Board.

Some 200 missionaries serve the Board in Tunisia, Algeria and Morocco, the three major countries of North Africa.

"The work progresses slowly," the Rev. Mr. Morgan says, "in view of the militant Moslem faith. In some areas, the work is downright dangerous."

The missionaries have established vocational bookstores, correspondence courses, and a farm school, as well as giving medical assistance. The Tunisian correspondence school, headquartered in a bookstore, was forced out by the government, Mr. Morgan reports. Now based in Marseilles, France, the organization plans to beam radio broadcasts to the area in Arabic and French.

While he is away, the Rev. Mr. Morgan will visit two missionaries supported by Westerly Road Church: James Nesbit, working in the Alps near Lyons, France, and Miss Marcia Hoffman, serving with an international student fellowship in Lausanne, Switzerland.

BULLETIN NOTES

Church Concert. Part I of Mendelssohn's "Elijah" will be performed at 8 p.m. this Sunday by choir, orchestra and soloists at Lawrenceville Presbyterian Church. The community is invited. Soloists are Harold Johnson, bass; Lorraine Stroukoff and Dolores Horch, sopranos; Sonia Hatrak, alto, and Dennis Fairburn, tenor.

Bake Sale. Mrs. John Brabson Sr. is chairman of the bake sale to be held Sunday at St. Paul's Church. The sale will be in the auditorium following all masses.

Snow Ball. Washington Crossing Inn will be the scene this Friday of the 10th annual Snow Ball of St. Matthew's Episcopal Church, Pennington. Robert Hunt of Hopewell Township is general chairman; Mrs. Herbert S. Kerr of Maple Lane, Pennington, is ticket chairman. Admission is $4 per couple.

Demonstration. The Woman's Organization of Plainsboro Presbyterian Church are sponsoring a Dutchmaid Party at 8 p.m. Tuesday in the Church parish house. Refreshments will be served.

Methodist Women "Rekindling the Inner Life Through Prayer" is the topic of the 10 a.m. meeting Tuesday of the Women's Society of Christian Service, Princeton Methodist Church. The program will be led by Mrs. Leon Gibson, Mrs. Robert Shaw, Mrs. Harold Warner and Mrs. Ernest Hogan Jr. Mrs. Max Mesner is president.

Ethical Culture. Howard Radest will discuss "Men, Ideas and Money" this Sunday at the 10.30 a.m. meeting of the Ethical Culture Fellowship. Mr. Radest, executive director of the American Ethical Union, is leader of the Bergen (N.J.) Ethical Culture Society.

Perspectives. The discussion group to be led at 9 30 a.m. on four consecutive Sundays in March by Mrs. Frances Saunders is entitled "Presbyterian Perspectives: 1775-1965." The first session, March 7, will be held in the First Presbyterian Church conference room. Mrs. Saunders, an elder of First Church, is a member of the Synod Committee on Religion and Race. The first topic is "Colonial Presbyterians and Early Social Conflict."

Presbyterian Series. The first of the Lenten dinners sponsored by the Princeton Presbyterian Commission will be held at 7 p.m. Wednesday, March 3, at First Church. The Rev. Dr. R.B.Y. Scott of the department of religion at Princeton University will speak at 8 on "Old Testament Prophets." St. Andrew's and Witherspoon Churches will host dinners on March 17 and 31. Admission is $1 50.

Lenten Services

The mid-day Community Lenten Services, held annually at First Presbyterian Church, begin next Thursday, March 4. The Rev. Albert M. Tyson of Mt. Pisgah AME Church will give the mediation.

The brief services, conducted by Princeton clergymen, are scheduled for 12:10 p.m. each Thursday during Lent. A luncheon is served at 12:30. Cost is 65 cents.

Ham Radio. A group of ham radio operators will set up a sending-receiving station this Friday at an 8 p.m. demonstration at Westerly Road Church. The operators, known as "ARMS" (Amateur Radio Missionary Service), keep in radio contact with missionaries throughout the world.

Dr. Eicher Named. Dr. Lee H. Bristol Jr., Westminster Choir College president, has announced the appointment of Dr. Edward F. J. Eicher as acting dean of the college. He will hold office until the appointment of a permanent dean in July.

Dr. Eicher is professor of music education and department director. He is a graduate of Trenton State Teachers College, with advanced degrees from Columbia. He taught at Seton Hall University and at schools in Closter, Westwood and Atlantic City before joining the choir college faculty in 1961.

Obituaries

J. Hendry Wheeler, 72, of 67 College Road West, died February 16 in Princeton Hospital after a brief illness. He was the husband of Mrs. Catherine F. Wheeler.

Born in Lake George, N. Y., Mr. Wheeler was a long time Princeton resident. He was a graduate of the old Rider, Moore and Stewart Business College. He retired in 1952 after 36 years service in the Princeton Post Office.

Mr. Wheeler was a member of the I.O.O.F Princeton Lodge 106, P.O.S. of A. and St. Andrew's (formerly Second) Presbyterian Church.

Also surviving are a daughter, Mrs. Robert Millar of Palisades Park; a son, James C. Wheeler of 145 Valley Road, and three grandchildren.

The service was held at the Kimble Funeral Home, the Rev. F. Hugh Liffiton of St. Andrew's officiating. Interment was in the Princeton Cemetery.

John R. (Bud) Watson Sr., 57, of 13 Euclid Avenue, Kingston, died February 20 in Princeton Hospital after a brief illness. He was the husband of Mrs. Lila S. Watson.

Born in Princeton and a Kingston resident for 25 years, Mr. Watson was employed by the McLean Engineering Company. He was an exempt member of the Princeton Hook and Ladder Fire Company, No. 1.

Also surviving are three sons, John R. Jr., Richard B. and Robert D., all of Kingston; his mother, Mrs. Mary Watson of Princeton; two sisters, Mrs. Verna Anderson of Hopewell and Mrs. Evelyn Mershon of Princeton; two brothers Maurice and Douglas, both of Princeton; and two grandchildren.

The service was held at the Kimble Funeral Home, the Rev. Robert R. Spears of Trinity Episcopal Church, officiating. Interment was in the Princeton Cemetery.

Herman Ragsdale, 55, died February 19 at his home, 228 S. Main Street, Pennington, after a lengthy illness. He was the husband of Mrs. Elizabeth Ragsdale.

Born in Pitman, Mrs. Ragsdale lived in Pennington for about three years.

Also surviving are two sons, William in the U. S. Army, and Robert of Glassboro; six sisters, three brothers and four grandchildren.

The service was held in Trenton. Interment was in Ewing Cemetery.

Mrs. Edna M. Burchill, 88, formerly of Princeton, died February 21 in Dayton, O., where she lived for 13 years. She was the widow of Robert C. Burchill.

Surviving are a son, Robert D Burchill of Dayton, a daughter, Mrs. Eileen B. Stewart of Germany, a grandaughter, two great-grandchildren and nine great-great-grandchildren.

Graveside services were held in Highland Cemetery, Hopewell, the Rev. Robert A. Beringer of Hopewell Presbyterian Church officiating.

Academic Circles Squared Off.

To the Editor of Town Topics:

Mr. Seldner's letter (Town Topics, Feb. 11, 1965) asserting Columbia's superiority over Princeton academically fails to convince, although it is conspicuously designed to persuade. There is nothing in his material which logically or empirically confirms his argument that the alleged superiority is "clearly demonstrable." Rather, we are offered a phenomenological tract expressing Mr Seldner's belief-system.

It would have been more appropriate for Mr. Seldner to "tick off point by point" Columbia's superiority. But he wisely chose to suppress it by an ad hominem routine (Town Topics is a "parochial Princeton newspaper"), even though we are assured of secret information in Mr. Seldner's possession.

Mr. Seldner knows as well as anyone that there is no credible metric which characterizes "academic superiority" between institutions, even comparable ones. There are a series of evaluations more or less quantitatively supported (" . . . has more Rhodes Scholars than ————," "A's forestry faculty has published more in 1964 than B's," etc.)

But the selection from these is trivial: you will choose all and only those which tend to confirm what you knew already, namely, that your school is "academically superior." Even so, I have never heard that Columbia ranks higher than Princeton in such evaluations, even though I've been in "academic circles" all of my life and, moreover, have little confidence in the information they pretend to convey.

Therefore, it is not entirely unexpected that Mr. Seldner immediately identifies Princeton's claim to superiority with the old prediction about "snob appeal." Even here, however, Princeton is said to come off third among the sociologically-blessed H.-Y.-P. axis. But, the grammar of Mr. Seldner's context at this point is unclear.

If he means that Princeton students as a group are somewhat porer than Harvard's or Yale's, he is probably right. But I know of no academic evaluation in which Yale exceeds Princeton, nor anyone at Yale bold enough to proffer it. Indeed, Mr. Seldner's use of H.-Y.-P. as a "magic incantation" may reflect more his own emotional disturbance at being excluded from an H.-Y.-P. fiction of his own construction.

We are then offered the preferred alternative to H.-Y.-P., namely, "the big three of collegiate excellence" (Harvard, Columbia, Chicago) which is authenticated, according to Mr. Seldner, by criteria including "faculty and student quality among others." Later we lern that Columbia, but not Princeton, is "one of the world's great universities."

Mr. Seldner is guilty here of a confusion: he is forcing Princeton to compete in areas which she has never intended to enter. For Princeton does not have the professional schools on which Mr. Seldner's evaluation depends. Therefore, Princeton cannot be one of the world's great universities, ex hypothesi; in fact, in that sense, she would scarcely belong to the top 100 American schools.

Mr. Seldner's attack is as relevant as arguing that Columbia's medical school is superior to Princeton's; it certainly is, but trivially. It is preposterous, then, to associate — as Mr. Seldner apparently does — "certain glaring gaps" in Princeton's academic structure with her alleged omission from the "world's great universities."

Presumably, among those "glaring gapes" is Princeton's defective admissions policy which, it is said, remains archaically based on something other than academic excellence. But what is intended here?

If the historical implication ("a generation back") refers to a restrictive racial policy, Mr. Seldner would have to prove (whether the Admissions Office would confess or not) that academic excellence is racially dependent. Or, if Mr. Seldner refers to Princeton's attraction, if not preference, for boys with a history of athletic participation, he is guilty of the cartesian misunderstanding that athletics and brains are incompatable.

That an average freshman class at Columbia is significantly superior in the metrical outcomes of pre-admission testing is not true. There are bright boys at each school, some of whom may have applied to both. But the subset which is also athletically inclined would tend to Princeton, not Columbia.

That is, Columbia's students are not "academically superior" BECAUSE they are athletically inferior. Nor is Columbia's faculty "superior" BECAUSE her athletes are not.

Indeed, the Princeton experience is that the athletes as a group usually set the scholastic tone of the undergraduate performance. Accordingly, Columbia's academic standing might improve were she to accommodate more closely to the Princeton data and not her own defensive interpretation of the reality.

Finally, one thinks that each school has something to offer which is not unique to the others. If so, certain young people, but not others, will be attracted to school A and not B.

Mr. Seldner makes it seem that there is a uniform pool of relatively homogeneous young men who are faced with a decision every spring to choose between Columbia and Princeton, among others; and that, once all relevant empirical information is known to the applicant, he could not reasonably decline acceptance at Columbia (what with all that "superiority," etc., up there). Mr. Seldner knows this is untrue. And it cannot be made less false by appeals to alleged snobbery or the immunity perversely conferred by a losing athletic tradition.

Indeed, Columbia and Princeton are not — or not necessarily — even interested in the same type of boy. It would then follow trivially that Columbia is superior by Columbia's standard. But, in fairness, this says only that the two schools provide quite different experiences and solicit the composition of their classes accordingly.

In short, it may be that Columbia is "academically superior" to Princeton. But Mr. Seldner has certainly not demonstrated it. Nor will the secret information which he discretely withholds to avoid upsetting the townspeople alter the case. It will only reinforce the vicious circle necessarily involved, wherein everyone believes more strongly at the end what he already believed at the beginning.

Speculation about institutional superiority is a pediatric exercise at the level of "my brother can beat your brother up," and is rightly confined to alleviating the tedium of long winter evenings. But legitimate rivalries between schools will continue to excite in those very areas where they have always done so — on the playing fields.

Come to think of it, how eactly did Archie Roberts get to Columbia?

To the Editor of Town Topics:

In your article on Route I-95 appearing in the issue of January 28, 1965, you have attributed the "Consultant" line to the University. I wish to set the record straight. The "Consultant" line is one that was proposed by Herbert H. Smith Associates, and has no connection whatsoever with the University.

(Editor's note: The "consultant" line on the I-91 map was not "attributed" to the University by Town Topics' caption. The caption said that the line, suggested by Herbert H. Smith's firm, was "favored" by the University.)

ELECTRIC LIVING GUIDE

All rights reserved © T. Dickinson & Co. Inc. New York

YOU CAN TURN ON "THE SUNSHINE"

The family room looks golden-warm of a winter afternoon during the couple of boura the sun smiles by. . .but thanks to electrical heating it's still going to feel that way when the sun itself has headed West and over the horizon.

For it's a property of modern electric complete-home-heating systems to provide sunshine-warmth day and night on the instant. Fast as the sun toasting things up when clouds brush away. Only with electric heating systems, there's no whim..

Says the wife of a high-salaried executive who's lived in seven different houses in ten years — from New England to Texas — "I'd love to stay here forever. But we're really well-paid gypsies who must go where the job is. But I can tell you I not only know what I want in a home now, I insist on the important things first "And to me, the most important feature is an electric heating system. It is the most unwhimiscal method ever devised snap it on and that's it. . .your thermostat gives you the exact temperature you want in the room where you happen to be.

"On the other hand when the children are away on a skiing weekend, we turn the thermostats way down in their wing. . .not to where anything would freeze, need I add, but much lower than areas in use. The heat's on its way back up, of course, the instant you decide you'd prefer 72 degrees.

"I've found that whatever the climate, we can be sure of comfort if the heating system is electric. We're living in the North now, I assure you, you can be pretty miserable in a warm climate on a cold morning . . . those inevitable cold mornings which sunshine state's Chamber of Commerces forget to mention.

"Our luck, it seems to me, has been pheonomenal, too. In our several electrically heated houses we haven't had to fuss around hollering for and waiting for repairmen. We've just never needed one yet. This, however, I've been told is the pretty typical experience of "electrical" home owners.

"When you think about it, a life like mine makes pretty strenuous demands. Everything must work, and work efficiently. We can't spend a year getting used to the foibles of a badly built house. More likely than not, I'll have to entertain twelve pretty important people at dinner a week after we move in.

"Then there's the other thing. Whether we like it or not, we've become 'real estate experts' of sorts. After all with the exception of one lease, we buy — and sell — the houses we live in.

"The houses with electric heating systems, we've found, are also very good houses. Very well constructed and usually well designed. Even without my tears of sorrow at parting with a home I've just learned to love, a sensitive buyer's heart is going to melt. . .the happiness he's assuring is, after all, his own." And with electric heating, comfort, it seems, is what he's bound to get,. . .and adds up to quite a lot of happiness.

This elegant relic reminds us of bygone days. Be elegant, better your days ahead with total electric home heating.

QUESTION BOX

Q. Is there any place I could get second-hand electric baseboards?

A. I doubt it. . .and if you check with an electrical contractor who knows the electric heating business you're going to get the happy news that electric heating equipment and actual installation costs are considrred low

Furthermore, electric baseboards in a properly installed complete home heating system are going to last and last and last. Probably the only way they'd ever become surplus is if you decided to demolish a structure. Just be sure you deal with a recognized electric heating contractor.

Q. My neighbor says she thinks wallpaper might peel if I use it around my electric wall heaters. Is this true? (By the way, she doesn't have either wallpaper or electric heating).

A. Well what then makes her so positive with her negative information! Need we remind you just to go over and touch that nice wall flow heater in the room you want to paper. Remember what you were told? All the electrical heating equipment you might touch heats the room without in itself getting more than pleasantly warm. "Freedom of decoration" is one of the hymns of praise frequently sung about electric heating. Naturally, you'd make sure the paper was properly applied. . .but that has nothing to do with your fine heating system, that's somebody else's bailwick.

Q. My cousin and his wife say they believe electricity may be a less expensive way to heat a house; they're very satisfied with it. I've always though it was more expensive, which is it?

A. Electrcity for heating as of this minute in most areas is considered excellent value. And there is strong reason for the belief that rates, which have already decreased in many communities, may go still lower as the years go by.

Other savings factors which probably hadn't accured to you are: a) electricity as fuel is 100% useable in the rooms for which it is intended; b) you can adjust the temperature downward immediately if a room feels too warm because there are more people in it, say than when the thermostat was set, or if you're leaving a room. Then too, you can pretty well shrug off the possibility of any maintenance costs whatsoever.

Q. Does having electric heat in a home mean you have to go easy on the use of other electric appliances?

A. Heavens, no! Quite the opposite. With the heavy housepower wiring that goes in when your heating system does, together with the extra circuits recommended, there'll never be "shrunken television screens" or any other sign of electricity starvation.

If You Are Planning To Build, Buy or Remodel Call Any One Of The Contractors Listed Below. He'll Give You All The Facts On Total Electric Home Heating.

11 important questions before you buy an economy car:

1. DOES IT HAVE FOUR DOORS? It should so you and your family can get in and out without crawling all over one another.

2. WILL IT DELIVER AN HONEST 35 M.P.G.? Most so-called economy cars strain to give you 20 to 22 m.p.g.

3. IS IT EQUIPPED WITH DISC BRAKES? Disc brakes are safer than drum brakes, will last longer, aren't affected by water or usage.

4. WILL IT HOLD AT LEAST FOUR ADULTS COMFORTABLY AND DOES IT HAVE REAL BUCKET SEATS IN FRONT? Bucket seats fit your body, make driving safer and more comfortable.

5. CAN IT ACCELERATE FROM 0 TO 50 M.P.H. IN 9.8 SECONDS OR LESS? You don't have to be in the middle of the pack with an economy car.

6. DOES IT HAVE ADVANCED ENGINEERING LIKE RACK AND PINION STEERING AND 4-WHEEL INDEPENDENT SUSPENSION? These are the newest advances in automotive steering and suspension.

7. DOES IT HAVE AMPLE POWER IN EVERY DRIVING SPEED? The cutest cars stop being cute when you can't get around a big truck on a long hill.

8. DOES IT HAVE COAST-TO-COAST SERVICE AND IN-STOCK PARTS? This is important when you take long trips and need work done quickly.

9. ARE YOU COVERED BY AN HONEST, UNCOMPLICATED WARRANTY FOR AT LEAST A YEAR? Be sure you don't need a lawyer to decipher the small print.

10. DO YOU HAVE A CHOICE OF STICK SHIFT OR MODERN PUSHBUTTON AUTOMATIC? If you prefer a stick shift, make sure it's synchromesh in all four forward speeds.

11. DOES IT HAVE ENOUGH LUGGAGE SPACE? The first time you buy a heavy load of groceries or take a weekend trip, you'll curse the car that doesn't.

P.O.E.

If the new car you're looking at answers "yes" to all twelve questions, it's the all-new Renault R-8 1100. No other family economy car answers "yes" to even most of them. It is possible they might in another five years or so.

If you're looking for excitement in a new and different car, come in and take a demonstration drive.

ONE-STORY COTTAGE . . . here is a property which offers a wonderful opportunity to an imaginative new owner with a flair for design. Secluded rear yard with tall trees. Living room has fireplace, the bath is new, the 2 bedrooms are both of good size. Enclosed porch with flagstone floor and barbeque. Full basement and attic. (sole agent) $24,500

IN THE WOODS . . . secluded and quiet, on a circle in the township, with a little gem of a swimming pool and a very pretty garden, this comfortable one-story home has living room with fireplace, a kitchen with eating bar and dishwasher, family room with outside entrance and a bar, 3 bedrooms, one bath. $27,750

LIKE THE COUNTRY? . . . this beautiful home in its lovely woods could be the ideal place for a couple planning to retire, or for two young people who cherish a dream of living out in the country. Living room 14 x 28 with a stone fireplace. Modern kitchen, 2 bedrooms, 1 bath. One and three-quarter acres on a quiet country lane . . . All in all, here is just about as charming a place as you can find in this vicinity. (sole agent) $38,000

BUILDING LOT . . . this is an opportunity not often available in Princeton Township — woods, 1½ acres, city water and sewer, ready to build on. $19,500

BUILD ON THE LAKE . . . gorgeous location, a steeply sloping lot to challenge your architect's imagination and city sewer available so you can build at once. $20,000

SUNNY & CHEERFUL . . . this is a home which must be seen in the afternoon of a Winter day . . . every room seems to get the blessed sunshine, and that can make the difference between merely existing and really living in this latitude. Living room with fireplace, a comfortable family room downstairs, beautiful kitchen, 4 bedrooms and 2 tiled baths. $36,250

ON THE LAKE . . . where you will have a grandstand seat forevermore for every regatta that the Tigers win (or lose!). Nestled amid beautiful shade trees, the long, low one-story brick house, built on a slope, has a large living room with fireplace, separate dining room, a dream of a kitchen, 3 bedrooms and 2 baths. Living room, dining room and master bedroom open onto a porch with a gorgeous view of the Lake, and below there is a large recreation room and bath, and an office and plenty of space for another bedroom & bath. The terrace is huge and the grounds are lovely — with everything (including the boat house) designed to make the most of a superb location. $88,000

Many fine homes in Princeton and vicinity in every price range.

DEAL DIRECT

- RELIABLE GAS CONTROL: The Combination Main Gas Control and Pressure Regulator maintains constant pressure for better burning. The Diaphragm Valve with aluminum body resists corrosion.
- EASILY ADJUSTABLE AIR-SHUTTER regulates the flow of air for efficient combustion.
- LOW INSTALLATION COST: The entire unit is factory-wired and assembled Will fit into a minimum amount of space, thus requiring little or no expenditure for special construction to house it.
- DURABLE "PINPOINT" HEAT TRANSFER SECTIONS are made of corrosion-resistant cast iron. High rate of heat transfer means quick comfort. Covered by a ten-year cost-free warranty.
- SENSITIVE FAN AND LIMIT CONTROL starts and stops blower automatically and limits temperature to a safe range. The built in summer switch permits you to have air circulation in your home without heating during warm days.
- DEPENDABLE SAFETY PILOT: This vital safety feature protects you against the dangers of possible flame failure.
- HEAT HOLDING INSULATION: The foil-faced glass wool muffles sound and saves heat by reflecting it back into the unit.
- QUIET CAST-IRON BURNERS: The crossover slots in the new slotted-port burners insure instant ignition These new burners incinerate troublesome lint — are self-cleaning.
- QUIET BLOWER AND MOTOR are rubber cushioned to reduce vibration. The multivane centrifugal fan has extra-large capacity. Fan speed is adjustable, and the entire assembly easily removed.
- FILTER-CLEAN AIR: Built-in filter cuts dirt, pollen.
- HANDSOME, TWO-TONE GREY FINISH: Decorator-styled cabinet in Grenadier Grey makes a neat, compact installation.
- THERMOSTAT CONTROL: Furnace operation is automatic and is controlled by the General Electric thermostat. You simply set it and forget it.

FOR SALE

EXCLUSIVE: Massive fireplace in unusually shaped family room, another fireplace in large living room and central air-conditioning all insure year-'round comfort in this 3-bedroom Township 2-story. The large foyer, formal dining room, elegant kitchen with dining area and back stairs add to convenience for the lady of the house, while Dad will like the basement and oversized 2-car garage. $50,000

ONLY THOSE WITH well-trained children will appreciate the value of this well-kept, 4-bedroom, 2½-bath Township Multi-Level, with huge fenced patio, tall, tall trees, family room and garage. Many other details planned by a thoughtful owner. $36,500

EXCLUSIVE. High on a lovely treed lot, right over the Township line. This better than new split. Living room with fireplace, dining ell, kitchen, three bedrooms, two baths, large recreation room, library or fourth bedroom. Laundry room and two car garage. The trees, shrubs and view all make this a most desirable property. $35,000

EXCLUSIVE: No large trees but plenty of house in this delightful, newly listed Tennessee stone-and-frame 1-story, with 26 by 14 living room (stone fireplace), on 1 rural acre with neighbors. Sunny dining room, large laundry room, 3 bedrooms, 1½ baths, jalousied breezeway with access to unfinished family room or 2nd garage (only the door need be cut through). Possession can be immediate. $25,000

A DOLL HOUSE for beginners on a pretty treed Township lot. Three bedrooms make it practical for a small family; the price makes it possible for the young. $18,500
